HOW TOURING CAR AND TRUCK COLLIDED IN M'MURRAY

Five were injured when the touring car and truck represented by this wreckage collided today in McMurray road, near McMurray, today. The touring car attempted to pass the truck, leaving and bounding back onto the road after shearing a telephone pole to tangle with the truck, both crashing into a tree.

Welcome Thanksgiving. A Dangerous Season. Europe's Great Storm. Usual 5,000,000 Shares.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

TOMORROW comes Thanksgiving Day, and soon after that Christmas, then the New Year.

At this season the people slip out of the old year, into the new, and to some extent drop in the habit of hard work. For the young that want to get ahead it isn't a bad idea to begin making and starting New Year resolutions NOW. The best time to work is when others are resting, as the turtle discovered when he beat the hare.

A TERRIFIC storm, with high tides, continues to work havoc in Europe, sinking ships, flooding coast towns. In Belgium fifty towns are hurt, dikes caving in. One hundred are killed in the storm. King James executed witches for raising a similar storm.

HERBERT HOOVER'S journey among southern neighbors is a triumphal tour.

Crowds of our Latin-American neighbors get up at daylight to greet the new President of the United States.

It was an inspiration that sent Herbert Hoover on that good-will errand between his election and his inauguration.

THE usual 5,000,000 shares of stock, and more, sold in Wall street yesterday. The boom will last over Thanksgiving, anyhow. Five hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars is the latest price for a stock exchange seat, an increase of more than $900,000 in a year.

As many of Wall Street's 1,100 brokers as are active will be thankful tomorrow, and tired.

MR. SLOAN, president of General Motors, before sailing for Europe, remarked that he was "fully aware of the magnitude of recent developments in the airplane industry." It is expected that General Motors will enter the airplane field.

Mr. Kettering, vice president of General Motors, is a director of Pratt and Whitney Aircraf Corporation, one of the most successful builders of aviation engines.

GREAT fortunes will be made in airplanes. But don't forget that many will lose their money in airplane stocks, badly chosen.

Many that were first in the automobile field had names now forgotten. Pioneering doesn't always mean profiteering.

SENATOR REED, of Missouri, says railroads "block the Mississippi River," preventing the development of barge lines in the Middle West.

If railroads do that they are foolish, for whatever helps the country in the long run will help the railroads.

THE American Federation of Labor demands stricter laws against immigration. And that also is foolish. When there were 4,000,000 inhabitants in the United States there was only one man, a New England carpenter, that could earn as much as $1 a day all the year round.

With 120,000,000 here, many earn $10 a day and more.

Keeping out desirable immigrants willing to work simply means holding down prosperity. And labor ought to know it.

FOR some mysterious reason this country is still trying to get tangled up in the world court.

Nobody in this government, from President Coolidge down, would submit his own case to a court prejudiced against him 10 to 1. Why submit the affairs of this nation to such a court?

MILWAUKEE'S West Allis Presbyterian Church can't get a permit from the boxing commission to start a boxing class, with an ex-champion in charge.

The commission says a church isn't regularly organized for such things. The clergyman says he will go ahead anyhow.

"Whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also," seems to be out of date.

IN SHANGHAI there exists wholesale opium traffic, with "scandal in high places," military and police accepting bribes from smugglers.

That's terrible, China should know better.

But we have a little beam in our own eyes, in the shape of our prohibition bribery, hijacking, murders and corruption. Shanghai's opium scandal is a small thing compared with our bootleg scandal.

A PROFESSIONAL gambler surrenders in connection with the killing of another gambler named Rothstein and refuses to talk. If others, present when the man was murdered, do the same, no conviction is possible.

BUT detectives know that one thing criminals cannot do is to keep silent indefinitely.

Four or five know who killed Rothstein. They have certainly told twenty others, and somebody will tell.

IT IS dangerous to interfere with what men call "nature's balance." In national parks, government agents have slaughtered mountain lions, wolves, lynxes and other animals to protect the deer.

Now the deer, too numerous, are threatened with starvation. In Northern Arizona a herd of more than 28,000 lack food, and fawns are dying.

IN YEARS to come men may have to think about their own population problem. It will be solved, for kind Providence protects us. Science keeps rickety babies alive, decency prevents drowning girl babies, as was once done on a large scale. Plagues, famines and wars that once fixed "nature's balance" are diminishing.

Longworth to Award Trophy at Navy Game

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Speaker Nicholas Longworth will represent President Coolidge at the Navy-Marine football game Saturday and award the President's cup to the winning team. Vice President-elect Curtis, several cabinet members and a number of senators and representatives have taken boxes. Secretary Wilbur will sit on the Navy side during the first half and on the Marine Corps side for the second half.

NO ISSUE TOMORROW

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will not be published tomorrow, Thanksgiving Day.

TWO DYING IN MOTOR CRASH

Their wheels locked, a truck and touring car plunged off McMurray road this morning, cutting down a telephone pole and tree and injuring five occupants of the two machines. Two of the men are probably fatally injured. The accident occurred about four miles from Morganza. The victims were taken to Canonsburg Hospital.

Frank Morten, 1260 Oakmont avenue, Blawnox, contractor, driving with two employes, John Staas, 25, of 507 North Fairmount avenue, and John H. Elsser, of Blawnox, to Morganza, where they are constructing the new Pennsylvania Training School, attempted to pass a truck of the Seven Baker Brothers, driven by Anthony Staub, Greentree, with Frank Katton, Carnegie, as helper.

Morten drove off the road in passing the truck and, attempting to swerve back on the road, struck the front left wheel of the truck, then hit a telephone pole. The impact again threw his car against the truck and the front wheels of both machines locked and they crashed off the road. Breaking down a tree, the two cars plunged over a 10-foot embankment. The touring car was almost demolished.

At Canonsburg Hospital it was stated that Staas and Morten probably would die. Staas suffered a crushed chest and Morten was internally injured. The others were cut and bruised.

BIG POLICE DEPOSITS FOUND BY GARDNER IN GRAFT INQUIRY

The special grand jury today searched for and, it was reported, found significant evidence in the records of police officials' bank accounts. After scanning records from 31 banks, District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner walked from the jury room and said:

"Being a police officer was certainly a paying business in this town."

He had found, he declared, evidence that at least a dozen police commanders, with salaries not exceeding $250 a month, had made monthly deposits far in excess of their salaries, and that one official, whose salary was "between $2,500 and $4,000," had made a deposit of $6,000 in one month. Police lieutenants draw salaries of $2,500.

"HARD TO EXPLAIN"

"I mean to call in every one of the men involved and ask them to explain the sources of their surprising wealth," Gardner said. "Many of them, I think, will have a hard time explaining."

That collusion in Pittsburgh paid heavy dividends was Gardner's conclusion after the day's work had been only one-third accomplished. He still had records from about 30 banks to examine in tracing incomes from the 53 police officials whose accounts he wanted to balance against salaries.

CASHIERS APPEAR

Cashiers of nearly two score of the 83 banks subpenaed yesterday appeared today with books and records which they submitted to the grand jury. These included index cards, cancelled checks, deposit slips,

KING'S CASE GRAVE; WALES GOING HOME

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A letter from one of the King's physicians, Lord Dawson, of Penn, submitted to the cabinet this morning and ordered published, said that his majesty was suffering from inflammation — congestion — of the right lung, with extensive plastic pleurisy on the right side.

Lord Dawson's letter, addressed to Sir William Joynson-Hicks, the home secretary, and also signed by Sir Stanley Hewett, the King's other physician, read:

"I gather from you that the cabinet wish for a more detailed opinion about His Majesty's illness than is contained in the daily bulletins. Will you therefore inform them as follows:

"The King is suffering from inflammation — congestion — of the right lung with extensive plastic pleurisy on the right side, which, as you know, is a painful condition. Such an infection must from its nature be serious. In all illness of this character there must be anxiety which will continue for the present, but I am happy to say that the King passed a quiet night, that the condition of his lung shows some improvement and that his strength is maintained.

"So far then, the illness is being controlled, its force lessened, its symptoms alleviated; and I hope its duration will be curtailed."

WALES STARTS HOME

Prior to the issuance of the cabinet letter, public interest was divided between the news that the Prince of Wales had started the long journey home from Africa to be at his father's bedside, and a medical bulletin which told of little change in the King's condition.

The statement did indicate, however, that the fight against the

CONSPIRACY PROVEN, JUDGE RULES, BUT NOT AS CHARGED

The case of the United States government against an alleged gigantic North Side rum ring collapsed today in United States Court when Judge R. M. Gibson ordered the jury to acquit all of the 46 defendants on trial.

"The conspiracy as alleged in the indictment has not been established," Judge Gibson told the jury. "The government has shown a number of conspiracies among groups, but they have not been connected sufficiently to establish the conspiracy alleged."

The directed verdict was returned about 3 o'clock by the jury without leaving the box immediately after a brief charge by the court. The government rested its case at 11:30 o'clock this morning, and a two-hour recess was ordered on request of defense counsel.

BLANKET PLEA HEARD

When court convened this afternoon, Attorney George Wasser, one of defense counsel, offered a blanket motion for hind instructions of acquittal for all defendants, stating he would follow it with separate motions for each defendant, if necessary.

Wasser contended briefly that the evidence failed to establish that a conspiracy existed among the defendants and that it did not connect the defendants with a conspiracy.

PRACTICE REVERSED

Judge Gibson directed the jury be taken from the courtroom for an hour while the motion was argued. The usual practice of requiring the defense to argue on its motion was reversed, the court placing the burden on the prosecution.

For more than an hour Joseph A. Richardson, assistant United States attorney, who aided Government Counsel Ralph H. Smith in the presentation of the case argued the government had made out a case. The attitude of Judge Gibson was made clear during the argument, as he frequently disputed the contentions of Richardson.

Judge Gibson repeatedly asserted that he was unconvinced that defendants such as Assemblyman Samuel Grenet, chairman of the Twenty-seventh Ward; Wil-

13 MOVIE STARS ILL IN EPIDEMIC OF FLU

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Thirteen motion picture stars and two directors were confined to their beds today with attacks of influenza.

What was described as a "mild epidemic" struck the film colony Sunday when the stars, Clara Bow and John Gilbert, were brought down with the disease.

Others under physicians' care include Lois Wilson, Monte Blue, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barthelmess, Mary Philbin, Loretta Young, Sally Phipps, Jean Arthur, Ruth Taylor, William Haines and Buster Keaton, actors, and F. W. Murnau and Edward Sedgwick, directors.

In the metropolitan district of Los Angeles 502 cases of influenza were reported yesterday, bringing the total for the month to 2,163 cases. Deaths total 41 to date. The health

NURSE KILLS POLICE OFFICER IN HOSPITAL

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 28—(AP.)—Robert K. Evans, Denver policeman confined since last week in the Denver General Hospital by wounds received in a gun fight with an unidentified man, which cost the life of his companion, Patrolman Harry Ohle, was shot and killed as he lay in bed, shortly after 5 a. m. today, by Miss Farice King, a nurse at the hospital.

Miss King then turned the gun on herself. She is not expected to live.

One of two notes found in the room, written by Miss King, was addressed to "Dearest Bob," and said: "I have waited five years for this chance." Attaches of the hospital were of the opinion that Miss King and Evans, prior to the marriage of Evans, had had a love affair.

Louis Smith, a Denver fireman, who occupied a room in the firemen's and policemen's ward, where the shooting occurred, declared that Evans and Miss King had spent the entire evening and night in conversation. He also said Miss

MUST EXPLAIN WHY HE MARRIED KRESGE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—(INS.)—The Rev. Benjamin C. Dahmes, who married Sebastian S. Kresge and Mrs. Clara Swaine near Stroudsburg last October 27, will be asked to make a complete report on the affair to the Methodist Episcopal Bishop of Eastern Pennsylvania, it was learned here today.

"I am not fully informed as to the details of the Kresge marriage as yet," Bishop Ernest G. Richardson said, "but I shall expect a full and complete report from the Rev. Dahmes. Until I receive it I can make no comment."

At Stroudsburg, the Rev. Dahmes defended his action in these words:

"I though everything was all right or I would not have performed the ceremony."

Kresge, whose marriage to Mrs. Swaine was announced a month after it took place, had been twice divorced, the second time only 10 months ago on the grounds of unfaithfulness, while his third bride had been divorced from John Swaine, a poultry farmer of Easton, Md., five years ago.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, recently went on record as strenuously opposing the remarriage of divorced persons.

PITT, STATE RENEW FEUD TOMORROW

By JESS CARVER.

Pitt and Penn State are fit and primed for their thirty-first meeting on the gridiron, which will take place at the Stadium tomorrow afternoon. The game has been the city's annual Thanksgiving Day classic for more than a score of years, regardless of how weak either eleven may have been, or how poor the season, the contest has never failed to bring out a good crowd.

Neither eleven has come up to tomorrow's contest undefeated. West Virginia and Carnegie Tech have both taken the measure of the Panthers. Notre Dame, Lafayette, Penn and Bucknell have tripped the Lions. The Panthers are heavy favorites, their powerful line and elusive backfield combination having proved potent weapons in recent contests.

State is here determined to "shoot the works." The drab season that the Lions have been stumbling through has put the team in a spot where a good showing against Pitt is almost imperative. There are enough men on both squads who are playing their final collegiate games to make it fairly certain that there will be little attempt on the part of either team to make it a defensive battle. Given a dry field, a contest as sensational as the New York-Carnegie thriller of last Saturday is an easy possibility.

The State squad arrived in town at noon today and established head-pages from loose leaf ledgers and all other data tending to make up a complete record of bank transactions of the officials listed, from Public Safety Director James M. Clark and Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh on down the line to police captains and lieutenants.

"We also will question the bank officials regarding safe deposit boxes which police officers may rent," declared Gardner. "If any are found to have these we will subpoena the contents of the boxes."

A pile of canceled checks, which lay before the grand jury, was regarded as likely to provide valuable information for the inquisitors.

Delving into the bank records may prolong the grand jury's probe, Gardner indicated. The prosecutor had indicated that next week likely would see the end of the investigation, but the present sweeping inquiry is expected to postpone drawing of a presentment.

THREE-YEAR RECORD

Records examined by the jury included all transactions for the last three years. More than a score of banks reported that they carried no accounts of any of the 39 police officials listed.

These included the Homewood Savings and Trust Company, Keystone National, St. Clair Savings and Trust Company, First National at Pittsburgh, First National of Birmingham, Fifth Avenue Bank, Third National, Federal Reserve Bank, Napoleon State Bank, Freehold Bank, Farmers Deposit and Trust Company, City Savings Bank, All Nations Deposit Bank, Merchants Savings and Trust Company, Ohio Valley Bank, American State Bank, Union Fidelity Title and Trust Company, Pennsylvania National Bank, Pennsylvania Savings Bank, Exchange National Bank, Manchester Savings Bank and Trust Company, Potter Title and Trust Company.

In San Diego, Dr. A. E. 46 IN RUM TRIAL GET FREEDOM

liam Herd, Twenty-first Ward Republican chairman; John J. O'Donnell, Twenty-second Ward chairman, and Justus Schroedel, Twenty-fourth Ward chairman, had been shown by the evidence to have a part in any conspiracy.

Police Inspector Charles Faulkner was another prominent defendant government counsel contended was connected with the alleged organized traffic in booze.

Richardson argued the evidence established that retailers in whisky had to obtain the consent of the ward chairman before operating and that ward chairmen controlled the police, dictating raids or permits to operate.

Richardson emphasized that the testimony showed a uniformity of prices and operations in each ward, a strict observance of ward lines which would tend to establish that a conspiracy existed.

"NO JOINT CONSPIRACY"

Judge Gibson disputed the argument that sufficient testimony had been introduced to establish a conspiracy.

"You have abundant evidence to show conspiracies in groups," he said. "The important point, however, is the cement or the the connection of these groups in order to join all the defendants in one great conspiracy. There are a great many essentials you assume without proof. The essence of conspiracy is that there must be an agreement to act together, a common design to violate the law."

FORNEY ALREADY "IN"

As the 46 acquitted defendants strolled happily from the courtroom, one of their number—Alfred W. Forney, king of the slot-machine ring, was pining away part of the six months' sentence he is serving. Forney, also charged with conspiracy, preferred to plead no defense rather than stand trial and he was, no doubt, chagrined when news reached him today of the overwhelming collapse of the government's case.

United States Attorney John D. Meyer, who launched the grand jury probe last May resulting in the wholesale indictments in June, declined to state what disposition would be made of 13 defendants who have entered pleas of no defense or guilty to the charges. He also declined to state whether any action would be taken looking to further prosecutions of any of the defendants in connection with the widespread traffic in booze shown to have existed on the North Side by numerous witnesses in the trial.

There was a general feeling apparent among those interested in the case that the widely-heralded prosecution is at an end. Some of defense counsel were of the opinion that no further action against any of the defendants is allowed under the law in connection with the set of circumstances already the subject of testimony.

Richardson attempted to draw a picture of the forming of organized control of booze on the North Side. "Until two or two and a half years ago, Able and Mike and Charley Berger, and most everybody, sold liquor on the North Side," he argued. "Then suddenly something happened. All were excluded from business. The price was raised from $3 a gallon to $4. Cards are printed and police aided in distributing cards among the retailers. The wards were segregated and ward lines were strictly observed so that the favorite of the ward chairman could conduct the illegal sale and distribution in each ward."

At one point Richardson said, "The job of ward chairman on the North Side is one of the most dangerous jobs in the world."

FAULKNER AMONG FREED

The acquitted defendants were Joseph Abbott, David J. Adams, Edward J. Arthur, Herman R. Bloedel, Charles W. Bott, Martin J. Burke, Anthony J. Burke, James Callaghan, Regis Carr, James A. Courtney, John Cvnkovic, James DeAngelo, Joseph D'Angelo, Elliott B. Donley, Walter Etter.

John P. O'Donnell, Thomas Olliffe, Benjamin Shor, Edward Quinn, Oscar Riesterer, Michael Rogan, Edward D. Rosensteel, Justus Schroedel, Benedict Skasik, Fred A. Stratman, John Tito, Benjamin Wagner, Alexander Weinstein.

Those defendants who pleaded guilty or no defense were Simon Albert, Angelo Gangeller, Galogero Laverde, Herbert A. Ohl, Henry Oermann, Mattrew J. Shine, Eugene Cappi, Alfred W. Forney, Arnold A. Thornburg.

SOLICITOR FIXING OPINION FOR STREET VACATIONS

Charles A. Waldschmidt, city solicitor, today is preparing an opinion for submission to Council on the legal procedure for the city to follow in the future in the matter of street vacations.

The opinion was requested yesterday after Robert Garland, chairman of the Finance Committee, called his colleagues' attention to a decision from Judge John A. Evans to the effect that the city could not vacate a street without compensating owners of abutting property.

P. J. McArdle maintained that the city policy was sound in law. He pointed out that when the city vacated a street it merely vacated the city's interest in that street. If a property owner felt injury he could appeal to the courts and a viewer would be appointed to adjust the case. Vacations were therefore in the hands of the court at all times, McArdle held.

serious malady of pleurisy which afflicted his majesty was aided by a more restful night. Signed by Sir Stanley and Lord Dawson, the bulletin said:

"The King passed a quieter night. His temperature and general condition remain as before."

This statement coupled with last night's bulletin saying that the King's temperature was lower and that his strength was maintained gave additional encouragement to millions of anxious subjects.

Sir Stanley and Lord Dawson, left the palace about 11 a. m., after a visit of an hour and a half, and returned at 1:30 p. m. to stay until 3.

PRINCE MAKES DECISION

There was intense interest in the decision of the Prince of Wales to return home and dispatches from South Africa telling of his movements and the plans for a rapid journey are eagerly read throughout Great Britain.

South African messages this morning saying that the Prince's decision was due to his receipt of a cable indicating the necessity of his return were met by reiterated statements in official circles in London that his decision was taken on his own initiative.

Prime Minister Baldwin received a telegram sent by the Prince from Dodoma, Tanganyika, saying:

"In view of the illness of his majesty, the King, my brother and I are returning to England as soon as possible."

The admiralty directed the fast light cruiser Enterprise to proceed from Aden to Dar-Es-Salaam and there hold herself at the disposal of the prince.

The Daily Mail said the cruiser, which has a speed of 33 knots, would presumably take the prince through the Red Sea to Brindisi, Italy, from which point he would travel overland. It would take the prince at least two weeks to get home by this route.

WOMAN LOSES TOOTH, ROUTS BURGLAR

Biting his hand as he clamped it over her mouth, Mrs. Loma Pollock, 26, of 2342 California avenue, North Side, last night routed a man who had invaded her kitchen.

She bit him so enthusiastically that she lost a tooth as the intruder jerked his hand free and fled.

Mrs. Pollock was sitting on the kitchen floor feeding two Boston terrier puppies when the man entered through the kitchen door. "Keep quiet. I'll not hurt you," he told her, Mrs. Pollock said.

She ran for the door and was seized by the intruder who placed his hand over her mouth to prevent an outcry.

She bit him.

He fled.

The woman told the police that previous to the attack the man called at her home and asked if her brother-in-law was at home. Informed that he was not, he left, only to return later.

quarters at the Schenley Hotel. A light workout was scheduled for the stadium later in the day, to be held before the Panthers take the field for their last drill of the season.

There will be seven sophomores in the State lineup, according to the probably starting team named by Coach Bezdek today. The only veterans booked to be on the gridiron for the opening kickoff are Hamas, the fullback and acting captain; Allie Wolff, Martin and Eschbaugh.

George Delp, veteran end, is on the hospital list nursing an injured shoulder and may not be able to get into the struggle.

Duquesne's varsity will end its preparation for the important conference battle with Waynesburg on the Bluff gridiron tomorrow morning with a light drill this afternoon.

The Dukes can slip into a tie for the conference title with Westminster by beating back the Yellow Jackets here. If the Laydenmen are able to accomplish this feat, it will be the first time in history that a Duquesne eleven has beaten a Waynesburg team.

Waynesburg will arrive tomorrow morning. The probable lineup:

MRS. KEYES IDENTIFIES M'MANUS

RECOGNIZES "JACK"

She has identified a photograph of George McManus, held in connection with the murder, as a picture of her host, known to her only as "Jack."

Her story, in part, follows:

"It was a desire to see new surroundings that led me to leave Chicago for a brief visit to New York. And what did I do but walk right into a murder case.

"If some one had told me, while I was in Room 349, that within a few hours Arnold Rothstein would be shot in that very room I would have thought it a good joke.

"For there was no hint of grim plans when I was there, and even now, as I look back with all the facts before me, I cannot believe that death hovered over that hotel room during the time I was present.

M'MANUS UNWORRIED

"I have seen a photograph of George McManus and his face is that of 'Jack,' who entertained me that night. But if 'Jack' or George McManus had any connection with this crime, then I marvel at his gaiety, his utter lack of worry a short time before the deed was done.

"When I arrived in New York I went to the Park Central and was given room 330. It was on Saturday night, 24 hours before Rothstein was shot, that I met Jack. He came dashing out of room 349 and nearly bowled me over.

HUNTS MAID, FINDS RUTH

"'Pardon me,' he apologized, 'I was looking for the maid.' I laughed and so did he. We talked and then he invited me to have a highball.

"I went into room 349. It was really a suite and quite an expensive one, too.

"I asked my host's name and he said, 'Jack.'

"I only stayed a few minutes and as I was leaving Jack asked if I would join a little party the next night. He said he would phone me."

Mrs. Keyes then related how the next day, Sunday, about 4 in the afternoon, "Jack" called and she went back to room 349.

"There was another man there, a silent morose sort of a chap," she continued. "We had a few drinks and then a third man came in. He was introduced as "Chick" and he brought along three bottles of firewater. He didn't stay long.

FULL OF PARLOR TRICKS

"Jack was the life of the party, but the other man didn't seem to be having a good time. He drank steadily, but hardly said a word. Jack was different. He did solo dances and sang.

"'I'm good at parlor tricks, too,' he said. He started throwing cubes of ice into the air and catching them in his glass. It was all quite silly, but I think that is significant now, in view of the murder and Jack's arrest.

"Jack tried to get his friend interested.

"'How do you like my girl friend?' he asked, but the morose one only grunted.

"Then Jack suggested that we stage a real party there that night. If there was any hint of crime to come, I don't think he would have made that suggestion.

"Jack asked me to stay in New York, but I said I would have to return to Chicago, for my money was giving out.

"SO I TOOK THE $50—"

"'Oh, a little thing like that,' he said, and handed me a $50 bill. He took it from a large roll of bills—there must have been several thousand dollars in that roll.

"Later, after I had returned to my own room, I dropped the $50 bill somewhere. As I left the hotel I met Jack again, and told him the bill was gone.

"'Well, here's another,' he said gaily.

"The other man left early, still glum. I didn't know his name, but I would know him if I ever saw him again. He had dark curly hair, was of medium height and was conservatively dressed. He looked like a foreigner.

"Although he kept to himself, he didn't appear to be worried about anything. Neither of the men gave any indication that they had knowledge of what was to happen in that room.

"The mysterious 'Chick' who dropped in only for a few minutes, likewise appeared at ease, although I have wondered since if the liquor he brought was intended for Jack and me. Jack did not telephone him to bring it. While I was there, there were only two phone calls and both were for me.

"I left Room 349 about 5:30 in the afternoon to keep my engagement. Jack tried repeatedly to induce me to remain, and I finally said I would call him if I returned to the hotel before midnight.

"I got in about 11:30 and immediately rang Room 349. There was no answer. At 1:45 a. m. I called again. Still no answer. So I went to bed.

"At 4 o'clock in the morning I was aroused by a knocking at my door. There were three detectives there. They said they wanted to question me, but they refused to say what was wrong and I did not know what had happened until I bought a newspaper at breakfast."

King had spent considerable time in writing during the night.

Smith, who was operated on yesterday, was under the care of Miss King, and it was not until after she had been assigned to his case, according to attaches at the hospital, that she was aware of Evans' presence in the hospital.

Smith, awakened by the shot that killed Evans, saw Miss King fire the bullet into her own body, but was helpless to prevent it. He cried out a warning, but his cries were not heard by others in the hospital, and it was not until after the second shot that help reached the room.

Miss King is said to have come to Denver from Kansas City several years ago.

COSTA RICA WELCOMES HOOVER WITH NATIONAL HOLIDAY

GUNS ROAR SALUTE AT LANDING

International News Service.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Nov. 28.—A national holiday was declared today in honor of the visit of President-elect Herbert Hoover, due here early in the afternoon on a special train from Punta Arenas.

An honor guard was detailed to meet the train and escort Mr. Hoover to the United States legation, thence to the "Peace Palace" to pay his respects to President Viquez.

President-elect Hoover landed at the Port of Punta Arenas at 8:30 a. m., and was given a noisy welcome. Shore batteries exchanged salutes with the U. S. S. Maryland which had anchored a half hour earlier in the roadstead.

SHIPS DECORATED

Ships in the harbor, including the British vessel Salvador, were decorated with flags. A large crowd, held back by militia, was on the wharf and quays and the native police band played as the visitors came ashore.

A delegation from the cabinet met Mr. Hoover, who left soon afterwards for the capital at San Jose.

Hoover arrived in Costa Rica from Nicaragua. He said he was deeply gratified over the success of his Nicaraguan visit and the opportunity to meet the leaders of the Nicaraguan political factions. He feels that that a great advance has been made in the permanent pacification of the republic.

President Diaz, President-elect Moncada and Former President Chamorra, leaders of the three political factions in Nicaragua, gave pledges that obstructionist tactics would be abandoned.

The views of President-elect Moncada and President Diaz that the proposed Nicaraguan canal should be built under the terms of the United States treaty, apparently advanced that vital project to the point of specific diplomatic and engineering problems.

President-elect Hoover believes that his tour is also showing good results and that the ties between the United States and Central American republics have been strengthened by his informal and neighborly "dropping in" upon Honduras, San Salvador, Nicaragua and Costa Rica.

Mr. Hoover is due at Guayaquil, Ecuador, on Saturday, where he probably will spend his first night ashore since leaving San Pedro, Cal.

WESTINGHOUSE GETS BIG JOB

The Big Four Railway has placed an order with the Union Switch and Signal Comany, a subsidiary of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, for car retarders of the electro-pneumatic type for the Sharonville, O. yards, involving an amount understood to be approximately $500,000. This installation comprises 24 car retarder units and 31 power operated switches with complete signal control machines and auxiliary apparatus of the latest design.

First Blair County Padlocks Snapped

Ten preliminary padlock injunctions, the first against Blair county hotels and saloons, were issued today by Judge Nelson McVicar. These were included in a list of 23 preliminary injunctions granted on petition of Attorney K. R. Mason, of the prohibition force legal staff. Five were against places in Johnstown, three in Erie, one in Conemaugh and two in Somerset county.

Among the places hit in Altoona are the Buckhorn Hotel, Hotel Wagner, Hotel Walton and the Buckhorn Inn. Pending a final hearing January 15, the owners are restrained from selling liquor on the premises.

Montour Railroad Sale Rumor Denied

The Pittsburgh Coal Company is not planning to sell the Montour Railroad, and no consideration has been given such a proposal, an official of the company stated following rumors that ownership of the road was to change hands.

Reports that some of the company's mines are to be sold to other interests also were denied.

The rumors probably resulted from attempts to explain the recent activity of the stock, in the opinion of officers of the company.

2 Vending Machine Robbers Are Routed

Patrolman Fred Fisher early today routed two robbers from the Twelfth street incline of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, South Side, where they were attempting to force open vending machines. The patrolman was walking in Freyburg street toward the incline when he noticed the men run from the incline depot. An investigation revealed that they had tried to loot the boxes.

Slayer of Girl for Insurance Guilty

Levi Coleman, Donora Negro, today was found guilty of first degree murder in the death of his 15-year-old sister-in-law, Bertha Thomas. The jury recommended mercy. The girl was found with her skull crushed by a stone in Love's Hollow last May. The prosecution contended Coleman slew the girl to collect $200 insurance.

COUNTY AUDIT BARES "LOOSE METHODS"

Numerous irregularities and "loose bookkeeping methods" have been bared in the offices of the Prothonotary and the Clerk of Courts by the audit authorized by the County Commissioners.

This was revealed today by the filing of a report by Ernst & Ernst, who are making the audit to County Controller Robert G. Woodside. The audit disclosed that $23,867 is owed the county by various boroughs, townships and individuals for fees that should have been collected by the prothonotary's office or, if collected, were not turned over to the County Treasurer.

In addition $1,562 collected in fees in the prothonotary's office in 1927 was not turned over. Costs of $805 collected through the probation office were not reported to the Treasurer.

"These errors," the report states, "were not detected prior to the audit due to the loose manner in which these records were kept and in the ineffectiveness of the audits made by the controller's office prior to the time Controller Woodside took office."

The numerous errors found in the accounts were not detected before, the Ernst & Ernst report says, owing to the fact that there was no check or control over unpaid balances.

Controller Woodside said that he and Prothonotary John Vogt had discussed changes to minimize the possibility of such irregularities hereafter. The County Treasurer, as soon as possible, will receive the money due, he asserted.

WALSH DEFENDS POLICE ACCUSED OF BRUTALITY

Members of Council today are reviewing a letter from Safety Director James M. Clark replying to a request for a report of police brutality hurled by Alderman John J. Verona after he was discharged as a police magistrate by Mayor Charles H. Kline.

Clark's letter was presented yesterday at a meeting of the Councilmanic Safety Committee and received without comment except for instructions to the clerk to furnish each member with a copy.

Verona's charges were contained in a copy of a letter forwarded to Mayor Kline last September 24. On October 2 Council asked Clark for a report and the director replied November 26.

HOEY SOME SHAKER

Clark's letter did not go into the Verona charges, but merely stated that the director was forwarding a report prepared by Peter P. Walsh, superintendent of police, on October 30.

Among other things, Verona charged that Police Inspector James Hoey hit Oliver Lewis in the face knocking out two teeth. Walsh replied that Hoey was leaving the police station hurriedly and Lewis sought to detain him by holding his arm. Hoey merely shook himself free, Walsh explained.

Verona averred that John Burkowski sued police Lieut. John J. Schnurr for assault and battery as a result of being beaten with a black jack.

"LIQUOR IN CAR"

Walsh's reply stated that Schnurr had to use force to subdue Burkowski when he and two companions in an automobile resisted arrest on a charge of transporting liquor.

Verona referred to a woman wrongfully arrested by police, but Walsh stated she had a record for operating disorderly houses.

The Verona letter implied that police were persecuting a man named Carney and Walsh pointed out that Carney's activities as a pickpocket caused his arrest 12 times in 10 years.

Walsh's reply closes with a statement that brutality in making arrests is forbidden.

FIGHTS WIFE'S CHARGES

Arthur Gorfine, formerly of Brooklyn, N. Y., whose wife is endeavoring to extradite him into New York state on a charge of abandoning his family, is endeavoring to obtain his freedom here on habeas corpus proceedings.

The case, set for a hearing yesterday by Judge Thomas J. Ford, was postponed until Friday, because Gov. John S. Fisher will act on the requisition request at a hearing fixed for today.

Gorfine and his wife, it is alleged, have been separated for some time, but before leaving he deeded her a property in Brooklyn worth $15,000. Gorfine was trailed first into Ohio and then into Pennsylvania. Gorfine has been paying his wife $20 a week, but claims that payments have been missed since the Florida hurricane for the reason that his property and assets were wiped out.

INJURED GRID STAR'S ARM PARALYZED

By JESS CARVER.

Al Lassman, battered New York University football star, who has been confined in Mercy Hospital in a serious condition since he was injured in the head during the fourth period of the New York-Carnegie Tech football game at Forbes Field last Saturday, is suffering from temporary and partial paralysis of his left arm, according to information from an authoritative source.

Lassman was taken to the hospital from the field, unconscious. Saturday and did not regain his senses until mid-afternoon Monday. He was weak and dizzy most of yesterday, though he partly regained his memory and was fairly bright during the morning.

Charley Vye, manager of the New York team, who has remained in Pittsburgh with the injured captain, permitted newspaper photographers to make pictures of the star yesterday. It was Lassman's wish when he was first told what had happened that the "boys back home" be assured that he was o. k. and that he would be pulling for them against the Oregon Aggies Thanksgiving.

He made an effort to put on a big smile for the photographers yesterday, but it was a feeble attempt. He asked that pictures be rushed to the team in New York in time for the Oregon Aggie game.

Lassman's condition is not considered serious, in fact it has been characterized as "satisfactory" by his physician, but it will be some time before he will be able to travel. It is expected that he will be forced to remain here for at least an additional 10 days.

Provided he has improved sufficiently by Thursday, arrangements will be made to run a special wire from the Polo Grounds in New York where his team will face the Oregon eleven, to his bedside to enable him to follow the eleven he captained through a brilliant season in its final start of the year. Vye will censor all the reports of the game, as it is considered inadvisable to furnish the injured star with news of too sensational nature.

Lassman was injured when he was either kicked or kneed on the head, presumably by one of his own backfield men, in an off-tackle smash.

Two Suspects Held In Robbery Attempt

Suspected of an attempted safe robbery, Earl McWhirter, 35, of 1315 Spring Garden avenue, and Wesley Lance, 21, no home, were held for investigation by Magistrate E. M. Hough at a hearing today. They were identified by Patrolman William Walker as the two men he had seen leaving the office of the Bruin Oil Service Station, Galveston and Shore streets, early today. A safe in the place was found turned over. The robbers evidently had been frightened away before they could open it.

Accused of Theft, He Forfeits $100

John Carney, of 716 Carson street, forfeited $100 this morning when he failed to appear for a hearing in Morals Court. He was arrested yesterday after A. F. Fornaldy, of Marlin drive, Mt. Lebanon, complained to police that he lost $75 while drinking in Carney's residence. Fornaldy and two other visitors, who also were arrested, were discharged by Magistrate John Orie. They had been charged with visiting a disorderly house and the charge against Carney was that of keeping a disorderly house.

Boy's Leg Broken In Year's First Sled Accident

Jack Hogan, 5, of 213 Amherst street, Elliott, has the distinction of figuring in the first coasting accident reported to police this winter. He suffered a broken right leg yesterday when his sled collided with an automobile driven by John K. Seabold, 24, of 528 Ridge avenue, in Lorenz avenue. The boy is in the Allegheny General Hospital. Seabold was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

Michael Toth, 10, of Braun street, Munhall, is in a serious condition in the Homestead Hospital. He is suffering a fractured skull received late Monday when his sled collided with another sled in High street, Munhall.

COOLIDGES GO TO VIRGINIA ON HOLIDAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—President and Mrs. Coolidge turned to Virginia today for a Thanksgiving holiday.

The Swannanoa Country Club, a short distance from Waynesboro, had been given over to the Chief Executive for his stay in the Old Dominion and a special train had been arranged to carry him and his party to the scene of his short vacation. The schedule called for arrival at Waynesboro in mid-afternoon and completion of the journey to the country club by automobile.

In Mr. Coolidge's party were his personal aides, Col. Osman Latrobe and Capt. Wilson Brown and Col. James F. Coupal, the White House physician. Indicating that perhaps the President did not intend to devote his time entirely to pleasure, his stenographer, L. C. Geisser, also was included.

Tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will attend Thanksgiving services in Charlottesville. Later they may be spectators for a few minutes at the Thanksgiving Day football game between the universities of Virginia and North Carolina. The party will return to Washington late Sunday.

PRINTER'S BOY ARTIST AFTER WORK HOURS

Edward D. Hergenreder, 23, of 213 Edith street, Duquesne Heights, never heard of or saw the paintings of such world famous masters of the brush and palette as Michelangelo, Rafael, Rubens, Rembrandt, Monet, Manet, Cezanne, Gainsborough, Goya, Velasquez or Sargent. Yet his consuming passion is to become a great landscape painter.

Edward's dream may come true some day. At least, he devotes all of his spare time and energy towards its materialization. To be exact, he has an uncontrolable mania for painting landscapes and there is no question that he has talent. What he lacks is proper training. He does not get it in the print shop of the Abdou Press in the Manufacturers Building, where he must earn his daily bread as a printer and pressman. Yet, when Edward's daily grind of setting type and feeding presses is done, he still finds time for his brush. There is never a Sunday or holiday when he does not pack his paint box and fold his easel and set out for some beauty spot, there to fix his eyes upon nature's glories and by the magic of his brush give them form and beauty upon the cold canvas.

LATEST PRODUCTION

He has just applied the finishing touches to his latest brain child, a large painting of the "Golden Triangle" as viewed from Duquesne Heights. Not omitting the slightest detail, Hergenreder's brush gave form on his canvas to everything his eyes perceived—the towering skyscrapers, the massive bridges, spanning the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, factories that dot the river banks, river craft hauling their cargoes of steel and coal, and even an airplane soaring high above the city. Hergenreder worked six months on this canvas.

His room in the humble home of his parents resembles an art gallery. Its walls are littered with his paintings—landscapes for the greater part of them. At the age of 17 he conceived the idea of decorating the family bath room. He painted a connected landscape on its three walls. A painter told his father that no decorator could have done the work for less than $300.

DISPLAYED TALENT EARLY

Edward gave evidences of artistic talent when but 6 years old. He painted an American flag in water colors that won the admiration of his teacher and fellow pupils in St. Mary's Parochial School, Mt. Washington. Until he left the school as a sixth grade student he outdistanced everyone in art class.

"My ambition is to go to Paris or Rome to study the works of the world's masters. That is another reason why I am working at my trade. When I shall have saved some money, nothing will stop me from devoting a year or two to further art studies either here or abroad," he says.

Artistic talent runs in the Hergenreder family. Alice, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Hergenreder, is also courting the arts. Like her brother, she attended classes at the Artists' League of Pittsburgh. She is not so adept with oil as her brother, but handles pen and pencil better. Portraits and figures are her specialty. Her fate is the same as her brother's. She must earn her daily bread. The creations of her pen and pencil are as yet unmarketable, which makes it necessary for her to devote her time and energy to the prosaic task of manicuring fingernails and marcelling ladies' hair at a local department store.

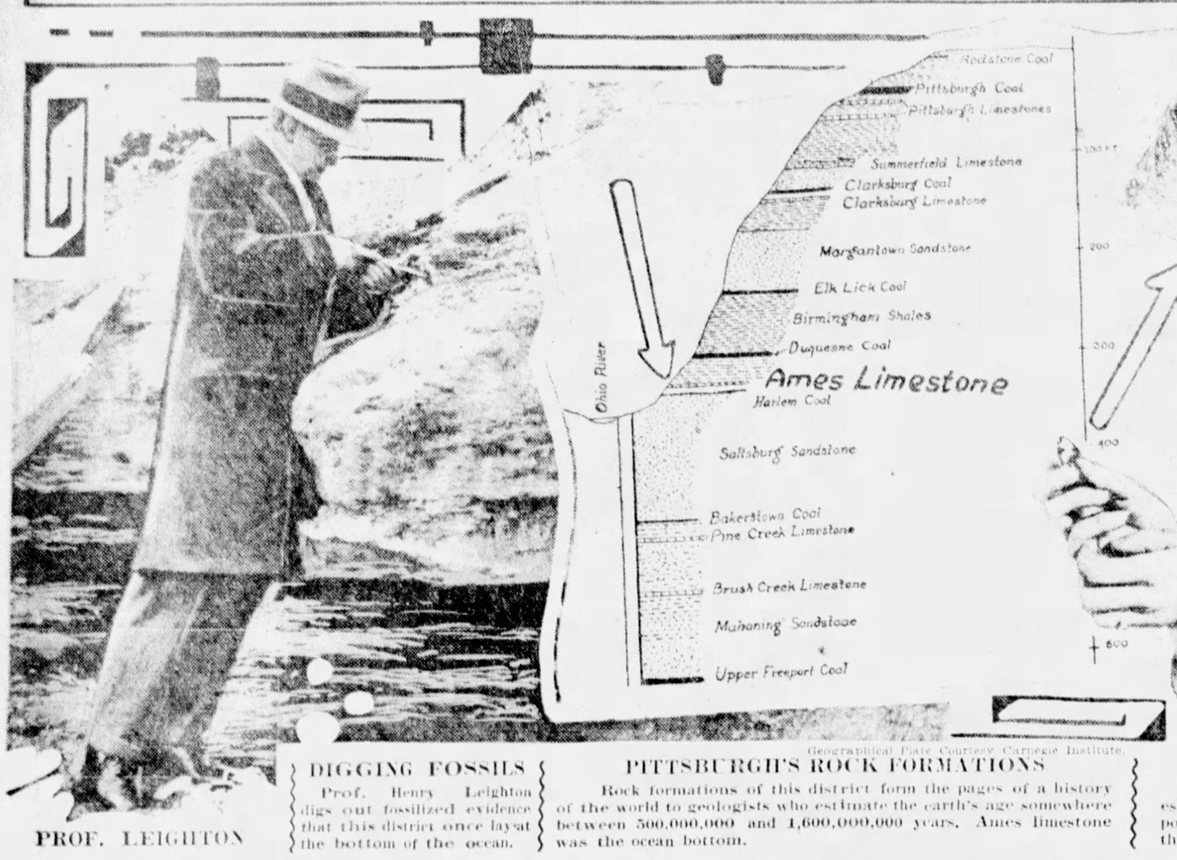
PITTSBURGH ONCE SEA'S BOTTOM, PITT PROFESSOR SAYS



PROF. LEIGHTON

DIGGING FOSSILS

Prof. Henry Leighton digs out fossilized evidence that this district once lay at the bottom of the ocean.

PITTSBURGH'S ROCK FORMATIONS

Rock formations of this district form the pages of a history of the world to geologists who estimate the earth's age somewhere between 500,000,000 and 1,600,000,000 years. Ames limestone was the ocean bottom.

Laura Coleman meets up with one of Pittsburgh's earliest settlers—a lobophyllum found in rock formation at the portals of the Armstrong Tunnels in Second avenue. Note the actual size enlargement.

PROF. LEIGHTON IN STUDY

Fossils tell an interesting story, declares Prof. Leighton, who studies here samples of the crinoid, bryozoa, marginifera and other forms of fossilized life found in Pittsburgh's hills.

OCEAN COVERED PRIMITIVE PITTSBURGH

Some 15,000,000 years ago—long before the Metropolitan Pittsburg voting machines and Al Smith were considered seriously—Pittsburgh was the happy hunting ground for Lophophyllum profundum, Amplexocelia convexa, Spirifer cameratus, Marginifera wabashensis and myriads of other cute little crinoids, bryozoa, brachiopods, pelecypods, gastropods etc.

Yes, sir! Those were the good old days!

And if you don't believe it, just scrape around down below the Parker strata—down around the Birmingham shales or into the Ames limestone particularly; dig up specimens of Productus, Rhipidomella, Hustedia or some of the other old-timers who loafed around in the vicinity of Neptune alley and Davy Jones' locker, where the Courthouse now stands, and ask them!

FASCINATING EXPLANATION

Of course these fossilized specimens, even if they were alive and wriggling today, probably would be unable to speak English, but it is a wonderful story they tell. Dr. Henry Leighton, head of the department of geology at the University of Pittsburgh, is authority for that. He understands these things and explains them in a most fascinating manner.

Prof. Leighton has prepared a textbook—"The Geology of Pittsburgh and Its Environs"—which reveals many of these interesting world millions of years before the creation of man. He points to the layers upon layers of rock, shale, sands and various other formations lying hundreds and thousands of feet beneath the streets of Pittsburgh as pages in the world's history, which dates back some 1,600,000,000 or 1,500,000,000 years.

BACK 15,000,000 YEARS

Hang on while we whisk you just 15,000,000 years—back to the Paleozoic age, when this particular spot on the earth's surface was at the bottom of the sea, as evidenced by the Ames limestone. Prof. Leighton has made an exhaustive study of this particular stratum of rock and has collected hundreds of specimens of fossilized plant and animal life.

In the Ames stratum he has found any number of tiny sea animals—shell creatures mostly which made their home at the bottom of the ocean. Most of them are extinct at the present time, but occasionally a live specimen is obtained from the bottom of the ocean, proving the geologist's contention that this particular form of animal life is to be found only underneath the sea.

PROOF AT EVERY HAND

Anyone can get the story first hand, Prof. Leighton declares. All that is needed is a little patience and a penchant for exploring. If he will hunt along the cliffs of Pittsburgh in the shaly covering of solid rock formations, he is bound to find some form of fossilized animal or vegetable life. Ores in the Ames stratum and near the top of the Birmingham shales will marine fossils be found, but there are any number of places around the city where the Ames formation is found outcropping.

Among the best and most easily accessible spots is the Brilliant cut-off of the Pennsylvania Railroad, according to Prof. Leighton. Other outcroppings may be found near the Homestead Bridge at the foot of Brown's Hill, Second avenue at the portals of the Armstrong Tubes and many other spots along the city's three rivers.

Pittsburgh Sewer Plans Approved

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Sewerage plans for Pittsburgh, Reading and Allentown were approved yesterday by the State Sanitary Water Board.

The Pittsburgh approval covers all the main and trunk sewer construction work contemplated by the city, while in the other two municipalities plans for both the collection and treatment of sewage were given the board's sanction.

WELFARE FUND CAMPAIGN NEARS SUCCESSFUL CLOSE

Pittsburgh's first campaign for the community financing of its philanthropies is closing amid prospects of extraordinary success. With its house-to-house canvass nearly $100,000, with 100 per cent subscriptions from employes' teams in stores, arms and industrial plants and renewed interest in the trade groups, the Welfare Fund has now $816,242.56 toward its goal of $965,679.

With piles of money and checks before them, the auditors were forced to give up their task yesterday, leaving several thousand dollars to be counted into today's receipts. The total yesterday was $76,598.02.

CITY WORKERS GIVE

Councilman John S. Herron reported that 1,466 city employes had contributed $2,567 to the Welfare Fund. Owen Phillips, chairman of the newspaper team, captured the honors of the day for a large subscription when he turned in $8,283.50 from the three daily newspapers and their employes.

Other chairmen honored for conspicuous work were: C. S. Mitchell, public utilities team; Miss Sylvia Franz, Fifth Ward; Miss Emily McCleery, Twenty-second Ward; Mrs. W. G. Kaufman, Upper St. Clair township; Mrs. W. S. Haddock, Dormont; Mrs. Margaret Morgan, Sewickley; Mrs. John Edgar, Springdale township.

RELAXATION SHUNNED

Many of the workers declared that they would not relax from their efforts on Thanksgiving Day and would keep on their canvass. In many apparently neglected districts in the city and county volunteer workers have taken up the cause of the Welfare Fund. In an isolated section along the Ohio River in the Twenty-seventh Ward, Mrs. Rachel Lee, a Negro woman canvasser, brought in 19 subscriptions from her Negro neighbors. In the Hill district likewise there were volunteer workers.

The final luncheon meeting has been announced for Friday. The campaign will close with a dinner in the William Penn Hotel Monday evening.

"KEG O' NAILS" PINCKNEY DIES

Rufus Pinckney, 38, Negro patrolman, of 16 Trent street, died in an ambulance en route to Mercy Hospital last night. He was stricken with pneumonia in his home yesterday.

"Keg O Nails," as Pinckney was called by many who knew him, was one of the most colorful characters of the Pittsburgh police force. He was a born comedian and for years starred in the annual police minstrel, held for the benefit of the police pension fund. He was a member of the force for eight years, having worked at various stations.

While patroling the Hill District he was the most feared officer by persons of his race. Pinckney was known to carry two guns and his word was law among his people.

Pinckney was a veteran of the World War. He was gassed overseas and decorated for bravery.

GASSED IN WAR, VET SEEKS AID OF SPROUL

Hearing that Evangelist John W. Sproul, gassed in the World War, had been cured by faith-healing, a World War veteran went to Mr. Sproul's Glory Barn last night to be anointed. He said he was Julius L. Kerston, of 849 Eighth street, Trafford and was suffering from the effects of gas, shell shock, and sleeping sickness.

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Rhey, of Terrace, Pa., told the audience last night that she had been operated on three times within the last 11 weeks for an ailment which has almost crippled her. After being anointed last night she walked across the platform and up one of the aisles.

There will be a special Thanksgiving program at the Glory Barn tomorrow. At 7:30 tomorrow morning there will be baptismal service. Evangelist Sproul also will preach at afternoon and evening meetings.

The suit which Louisa E. Eriewine, of Wheeling, W. Va., entered against Sproul to recover $1,430, which it is alleged she loaned him, was dismissed yesterday in County Court. Sproul admitted receiving the money in 1926 and 1927 while conducting a revival in Steubenville, O., but said that the money was a contribution instead of a loan. Three other similar suits are pending against Sproul and are listed for trial this week.

25,000,000 Christmas Seals to Be Mailed

Twenty-five million Christmas seals go out tomorrow in more than 125,000 letters, sent by the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh, to prospective customers in this city and county. This mail will be followed early next month with the public sale in the city.

Marilyn Miller, star of "Rosalie," assuming the role of special messenger for the Tuberculosis League yesterday delivered a packet containing 500 of the health giving little seals to James F. Malone, president of City Council, in his office in the City-Council Building.

Homestead Robbers Beat Another Man

The pair of robbers who have beaten and robbed several laborers returning from Homestead mills on pay day added another victim to their list last midnight. John Polisky, of 356 Thirteenth avenue, was dragged into an alley and beaten by the pair, who took $50 and a ring.

Homestead police say that some victims say the robbers are dressed in uniforms of special policemen. Polasky was unable to describe his attackers, as he was slugged in a dark spot near his home. After being treated at a physician's office he was able to go home.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of this hamburg tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacupful at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and relieve grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

A. F. OF L. RE-ELECTS GREEN TO PRESIDENCY

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—William Green today was unanimously re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor.

All other officers, including Frank Morrison, secretary, were re-elected, and the convention adopted a resolution "opposing the use of public schools to spread propaganda of special interests."

The resolution was introduced by Florence Curtis Hanson, of the American Federation of Teachers. It put the labor federation on record as "unalterably opposed to all efforts of private and public service corporations and of real estate boards and other private corporations to inject covert propaganda into the public schools and universities."

It also directed the federation's standing committee on education to continue its studies of text books used in tax-supported schools with these considerations especially in mind, and to forward their findings to the federation and affiliated unions. The resolution was adopted with only one dissenting vote.

Policeman's Nose Knows Stolen Perfume!

It was Patrolman J. L. Shaw's keen sense of smell that brought about the arrest of four persons in connection with the theft of perfume from a North Side home. Perfume was stolen from the home of M. P. Evans, 151 Cass avenue. Patrolman Shaw knew the smell and recognized it in the home of Clarence and Ida May Reese, Negroes, of 19 Bison street. The couple admitted buying the perfume from Mike Kinack, 19, of 21 Blessing street, and Frank Stepick, 28, of 12 Spruce street, police say. Shaw arrested all four. In Morals Court yesterday Kinack and Stepick were held for court on robbery charges, and the Reeses were held for court on charges of receiving stolen goods.

A CHILD'S COUGH EASY TO STOP THE DOCTORS DECLARE

But It Is Hard to Find a Remedy That Children Like to Take.

PARENTS SHOULD REMEMBER THIS

Any harmless cough remedy soon stops the coughs and colds of children because their little bodies throw off such troubles easily, provided they are not delicate and sickly.

But where am I to get something children will like to take is a big question. Cod Liver Oil is nasty and you must take it such a long time.

Here is the answer of doctors who know and love children: "Give the child 'Linonine,' a nice-tasting, creamy white, Flaxseed, Eucalyptus, etc., mixture, far better than Cod Liver Oil and quicker, too. The kiddies love it and it is as harmless and effective as can be.

Thousands of modern mothers keep a bottle always at hand for coughs, colds and to build up and strengthen the children this time of year. A cough is a nasty, dangerous thing for children. Well stocked druggists have Linonine, made by the nationally known Kerr Chemical Co., 50c or $1.00 sizes.

MOTION PICTURE COUNCIL FAVORS FEDERAL CENSOR

WOMEN OBJECT TO PLAN, BOLT MEETING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28. — The Federal Motion Picture Council has gone on record as favoring government supervision of motion pictures and also as declaring that the cinema has grown worse morally. These resolutions were passed, however, only after representatives of five women's organizations had walked out of the meeting.

They left the final executive session of the convention last night when they were denied the right by council officials of supporting their stand of opposition to Federal supervision of pictures production. The representatives withdrawing were those of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the D. A. R., the League of American Penwomen, the American Federation of Industrial Women and the National Catholic Alumnae.

"Motion pictures have nothing to do with crime, but censorship might well help increase crime. I note that Chicago has the strictest form of municipal censorship of any city in the country."

Thus did Dr. Carlton Simon, internationally known criminologist and former deputy police commissioner of New York City, pay his respects to the censorship movement after attending, as an observer, a session of the council.

The council, headed by the Rev. William Sheafe Chase, was in session to advocate passage of legislation such as is provided in the Brookhart and Hudson bills, to censor the movies.

"Many sincere and excellent persons attend meetings of this kind," said Dr. Simon. "An appeal on the basis of good morals always draws honest support. Yet the psychologist knows that in groups which persistently launch themselves into the public eye with complexes like that of censorship, a scientist can find useful subjects for study.

"The censorship complex is in itself a manifestation of well-understood complexes. The way in which this meeting was announced as an open forum, but arguments against the bills under consideration forbidden, is perfectly typical of bigotry."

CHURCHES OBSERVE THANKSGIVING DAY HERE

SPECIAL UNION SERVICES PLANNED

Churches throughout the Pittsburgh district observe Thanksgiving Day tomorrow with special services in the morning, corresponding to Benjamin Franklin's original Thanksgiving proclamation written more than 150 years ago.

Part of Franklin's tradition is:

"Being pleas'd observed the first settlers of New England with their difficulties and hardships, sought relief from Heaven by laying their wants and distresses before the Lord, in frequent set days of fasting and prayer. Constant meditation and discourse on these subjects kept their minds gloomy and discontented.

"At length when it was proposed in the assembly to proclaim another fast, a farmer of plain sense rose, and remarked of the inconvenience they suffered. He, therefore, thought that it would be more becoming the gratitude they owed to the Divine Being, if, instead of a fast, they should proclaim a Thanksgiving. His advice was taken, and from that day to this they have, in every year, observed circumstances of public felicity sufficient to furnish employment for a Thanksgiving Day, which is therefore constantly ordered and religiously observed."

The annual union Thanksgiving service of the churches of Shadyside will be held at First Evangelical Church, Center avenue and Graham street at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, with the Rev. Walter L. Ritter, pastor, Fourth Presbyterian Church, preaching the sermon.

Churches participating are: Fourth Presbyterian, Fourth United Presbyterian, Shadyside United Presbyterian, Mt. Zion Lutheran, Friendship Park Methodist Episcopal, Christ Methodist Episcopal and First Evangelical.

The downtown Methodist Episcopal Churches of the North Side meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in Arch Street Methodist Episcopal Church. These churches will participate in the union service: Arch Street, Buena Vista Street, Calvary, North Avenue, Ohio Street, Robinson Street and Trinity. The Rev. W. S. Boyd, pastor, North Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, will deliver the sermon.

A special service, beginning at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, will be held in the German Evangelical Protestant Church, Smithfield street, to observe Thanksgiving Day. "Thanksgiving, A Fruit Worthy of Cultivation," is the subject of the Rev. C. A. Voss' sermon at this service.

The Rev. Dr. G. E. Brenneman, pastor, Smithfield Methodist Episcopal Church, Smithfield street and Seventh avenue, preaches tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock on "God's Bountiful Hand, Our Grateful Hearts."

President Coolidge's Thanksgiving proclamation will be read at the Thanksgiving service tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at Trinity Lutheran Church, Stockton avenue and Arch street, North Side. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Alonzo Turkle, will deliver the sermon, his being, "Acknowledging Our Blessings."

Special music and an appropriate sermon mark the observance of Thanksgiving Day at Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, North Highland avenue and Rippey street, tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan, pastor, speaks on the topic "Grateful America." The services will last but one hour.

Mother-in-law of Girl "Lifer" Won't Help Free Her

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 28.—Mrs. Mary Livermore, mother-in-law of Ruth Livermore, serving a sentence in the Marysville Reformatory for burglary, today opposed efforts to gain the woman's release. Mrs. Livermore was given a life sentence and her husband a similar sentence, for burglarizing a South Side home. It developed that the woman remained in an automobile outside the residence. The severity of the sentence has aroused interest in the woman's behalf, but her mother-in-law says she is better in jail than out.

RIVER FINANCE IS PUT UP TO CONGRESS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—With the election of William R. Dawes, Chicago financier, as president, and adoption of a resolution asking Congress for money for the early completion of the Mississippi Valley waterway system, the tenth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley Association closed here yesterday.

Dawes succeeds James E. Smith, St. Louis, who resigned after a fifth of a century of activity in the Inland Waterway movement. The convention paid tribute to Smith in a resolution expressing gratitude of the association for his work.

The convention, in a resolution, pointed out that $452,270,217 has already been expended or allotted for completion of various waterway projects and called on Congress to make available annually whatever money is needed to complete the projects.

STANDARDIZATION URGED

The association held that the system should be standardized as to channel depths, locks, terminals and floating equipment and that the main trunk lines should have channels nine feet deep. The main trunk lines were specified as the Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio Rivers, and the Illinois Waterway and Intercoastal Canal in Louisiana and Texas.

The right to divert water from Lake Michigan for the Illinois waterway was upheld in the resolutions. The association praised the Denison Barge Line bill and requested Congress to appropriate $10,000,000 for added equipment and barges for the Inland Waterway Corporation. The sum already has been authorized.

"While reaffirming adherence to the principle of private ownership and operation of transportation facilities, we assert that no part of the operations of the United States Inland Waterway Corporation should be relinquished or disposed of by the Federal government until the obstacles and handicaps which now impede operation of common carriers, have been removed."

Calling attention to the need of proper terminals on the rivers, the association urged all river cities to construct docks and port equipment.

Approval was given to flood control legislation by the association, which urged prompt completion of a new survey for additional flood legislation. The association also came out against curtailment of the authority of the army engineers in river and harbor activity.

Other officers elected were T. F. Cunningham, New Orleans, vice president-at-large, and Lachlan Macleay, St. Louis, secretary.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Good will trip is successful. Send another battleship.

Stopped at Oblivion. President of Oblivion spoke. Mr. Hoover spoke.

Subject, "An apple a day keeps the sauce away."

Stopped at Amadooga. Got there before the Marines. So there was no fight.

President of Amadooga spoke. Mr. Hoover spoke.

Subject, "When they threw Jonah overboard were they doing right by the first good-will ambassador?"

Couldn't stop at Galoopa. But that didn't stop the President of Galoopa from making a welcome speech.

Mr. Hoover and the President of Speewax spoke.

This time they both talked together to save time.

The Marine band is seasick.

This is the first time it has been off the Potomac River.

Mr. Fletcher says he has rolled under so many triumphal arches that he feels like a croquet ball.

After 15 speeches, 20 dinners, fireworks and parades all over South America, Mr. Hoover enjoyed a sleep on the Maryland.

He finally realized that the only place where a man can really get peace is on a battleship.

A squad of 200 sailors were landed today to do Mr. Hoover's handshaking.

The fish that Mr. Hoover caught last week is still following the boat.

A commuter on a New York ferry boat created a disturbance by claiming to be the good-will ambassador to Staten Island.

He refused to land until a deck hand made a welcoming speech.

Effects of this peace trip are already sprouting forth. A member of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commorce actually shook hands with a citizen of San Francisco and a resident of Cicero, Ill., took off his bullet-proof vest when taking his bath last Saturday night.

SIMPLE HOME REMEDY FOR GRAY HAIR OR BALDNESS

Banishes Dandruff, Eczema, Etc.—Revives Youthful Luster and Color.

RESULTS AMAZING, FOLKS HERE SAY

"I bought a bottle for one of the children to stop the itching rash and dandruff for which it's wonderful, and using it on my own scalp I was amazed to notice my hair getting thicker, more even colored and every gray hair turned back again, like magic," enthusiastically declared a lady whose beautiful head of hair is a walking advertisement to the success of Lea's Hair Tonic.

"Lea's Hair Tonic has the faint odor of bay rum and contains sulphur, which, as everyone knows, is a natural part of human hair, but in addition it has seven ingredients a doctor labored years to work out in his search for something harmless, which one could use for years with unvarying change in the hair. He didn't want an old-time dye that brings such shocking shades, ever growing worse and darker. He sought a tonic to be rubbed into the scalp and not on the hair. You can dip hair in a basin of Lea's Hair Tonic with no change in color, but rub it into the hair roots nightly a few times and watch the hair gradually resume from root to tip its youthful color of blonde, red, brown or black, which ever it originally was, and who can give your hair a more becoming shade than the one nature gave you first?"

Applied at home with finger tips like any tonic, experts cannot detect its use. In about three applications dandruff vanishes and the scalp begins taking on a healthy tone—then the mirror whispers a little secret—you are NOT gray any more and your hair is thicker and you look years younger. Men swear by it. Prominent men and women constantly before the public wouldn't dream of staining their scalp with dyes, but Lea's is different, thousands use it unbeknown, even to the family, and you may, too, for druggists have Lea's Hair Tonic, or send dollar bill to Lea Tonic Co., Brentwood, Md., for bottle and directions, return mail.

The new Ford has a very simple and effective lubrication system

THE lubrication system for the engine of the new Ford is as simple in principle as water running down-hill.

A gear pump in the bottom of the oil pan raises the oil to the valve chamber reservoir. From here it flows on to the main crankshaft bearings and the front camshaft bearing. Overflow oil drops into the oil pan tray and runs into troughs through which the connecting rods pass.

As the ends of these rods strike the oil they scoop up a supply for the connecting rod bearing. At the same time they set up a fine spray that lubricates the pistons and other moving parts.

From the tray the oil runs into the bottom of the pan, and is again drawn up through a fine mesh screen and pumped to the valve chamber.

This system is so effective that the five-quart contents of the oil pan pass through the pump twice in every mile when you are traveling at only 30 miles an hour. Yet there is only one movable part—the oil pump.

As a matter of fact, the lubrication system for the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires practically no service attention.

There is just one thing for you to do, but it is a very important thing . . . watch the oil! Change the oil every 500 miles and be sure the indicator rod never registers below low (L).

If the oil level is allowed to fall below low, the supply becomes insufficient to oil all parts as they should be oiled.

To insure best performance it is also advisable to have the chassis of your car lubricated every 500 miles. This has been made easy through the use of the high pressure grease gun system.

Proper oiling and greasing mean so much to the life of your car that they should not be neglected or carelessly done.

See your Ford dealer regularly. He is especially well-fitted to lubricate the new Model A car and he will do a good, thorough job at a fair price.

BEBE DANIELS HAS AMBITION TO BE MOVIE DIRECTOR, RUMORS DISCLOSE

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.

THE fact that Bebe Daniels has rejected three offers from major picture production companies lends considerable color to the rumor that the Bebe is dickering for an opportunity to work in an entirely different capacity. It is well known in Hollywood that this star of over a half hundred Paramount pictures has always had a "yen" to direct. And it's a director's megaphone that Bebe is now reaching for, according to the story.

Bebe's agent, who, Paramount came through handsome to make audible-ize hers. The tests planned by Paramount for her were silent. The star felt that she was jeopardizing her future by failing to get aboard the sound bandwagon. Her salary is said to have reached the figure of $5,000 per week. With Bebe's intelligence and knowledge of production there doesn't seem to be any reason why she shouldn't be a topnotch director. Maybe she'll star and direct her own photoplays.

Douglas Fairbanks is about to depart from his time-honored policy of making one production and taking a rest. He will begin work almost immediately upon a picture to follow "The Iron Mask," which was completed last week. The story is at present in course of preparation, and while facts concerning it are very much under cover, it is definite that the film will be one of "Doug's" typical film-yarns with the action taking place against a foreign background. By the time this second one is completed Mary will be finished with "Cognac." Then Hollywood's ideal couple will go abroad for a vacation.

Has Two Roles In "Iron Mask"

BILLY BAKEWELL, who plays two parts in "The Iron Mask," gets yet another "break" in being signed to play opposite Alice White in her First National photoplay, "Hot Stuff," which goes into production soon. It is planned at present to make the picture a "talkie."

Howard Hughes, who holds somewhat the same distinction with his air-epic, "Hell's Angels," that was enjoyed by the producer of "The Ladder," is still shooting air stuff. Cameras are grinding skyward in Northern California while a whole fleet of planes do their stuff. Hughes' overhead on this battle sequence is $20,000 weekly. It will be but a small portion of the twelve reel pictures, but it will cost another $100,000. It is planned now to show the completed drama next March. It already has cost millions of dollars, but young Mr. Hughes is not in the least worried with fear that the response at the box-office will not justify the outlay. Incidentally, he intends to remain in the picture business. So that quashes all rumors that he would quit the movies after completion of the masterpiece.

Morton's Real Name Is Mudge

ONE of the most interesting things about young Charlie Morton's little domestic difficulties is the development in the case that his real name is Mudge. Which seems to be one answer to Shakespeare's query: "What's in a name."

It wouldn't be in the least surprising if Charlotte Greenwood took another fling at the movies. She arrived in town the other day to appear in a local stage production. But with that contract fulfilled, the talkies will surely call for Charlotte. She will not sign up until the theatrical proposition is out of the way.

Paramount's baddest bad-man, George Bancroft, not will be starred in a picture tentatively titled "Black Eagles." It is based on Wassermann's story, "Gollvin."

Hollywood is busy extending its congratulations to Rosabelle Laemmle, only daughter of Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures, upon her engagement to Stanley Bergerman, prominent Los Angeles department store executive. The heiress to the Laemmle millions was introduced to her fiancee by her brother, "Junior" Laemmle, about a year ago, and the romance ripened to a betrothal. There is nothing definite as to the wedding date, but it probably will be sometime next June.

Lloyd May Get Denny's Bride

A RECEPTION at the Hollywood Athletic Club followed the wedding of Reginald Denny to Betsy Lee (Bubbles Stelfel), which took place before a few friends at the bride's home. The honeymoon will be cut short, as Reg must report on the Universal lot for his picture work. Incidentally, there is a rumor around the studios that Harold Lloyd is considering signing Betsy for a role in his photoplay—providing, of course, that she and hubby agree.

Negotiations are under way to secure the services of Sylvia Beecher, stage player, as leading lady to Maurice Chevalier in his First Paramount photoplay. Miss Beecher recently distinguished herself in an important part in the stage production of "The Marriage Bed," in which Alice Joyce and Owen Moore starred. The picture is to be directed by Richard Wallace, who is responsible for some of the outstanding box-office films of the business.

MARY NASH STAR FOR PITT

"The Command to Love" comes to the Pitt Monday night, December 3, for a week with matinees Thursday and Saturday. The seat sale opens Thursday. In the cast are Mary Nash and Basil Ratzbone.

William Hodge, in "Straight Thru the Door," will be in the Alvin next week. The engagement is for one week only, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Seats go on sale at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Seats go on sale in the box office of the Nixon today for "Rosalie," Ziegfeld's romantic music play, which will be held over for a second and last week, beginning Monday night, December 3. Marilyn Miller and Jack Donahue are the featured players.

The headline attraction in Keith-Albee vaudeville in the Davis next week will be Frank Elliott's Minstrels. On the screen will be an airplane comedy, "Flying Romeos," with Charlie Murray and George Sidney.

"Bare Facts," this week's burlesque in the Academy offers A variety of amusement, presented by a company which includes Joe Yule, comic, and Jeanne Steel, dancing leading woman.

Pittsburgh Sisters Dance on Broadway

The Ward Sisters, Pittsburgh girls, dancing team, now are appearing in a tabloid revie, "For No Good Reason," which is playing vaudeville houses. Their act last week received commendatory notice in Variety, theatrical magazine, when it was presented in the Broadway Theater, New York. The Ward Sisters began their professional career in a tour of the Harris Houses. They vision themselves as "big-timers" now that they have appeared "on Broadway."

Irish Free State, Holmes' Subject

The Irish Free State will be discussed by Burton Holmes in his travel lecture in the Carnegie Music Hall at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Among the many places to be dealt with will be the Lakes of Killarney, Glengariff, Armagh, Limerick, Lisdoonvarna, Athlone, the Cliffs of Moher, the Gap of Dunloe and the Aran Islands. Next Wednesday the subject of the travelogue will be "Siam, the Land of Chang."

C. of C. to Honor Smith of P. R. R.

The General Traffic Committee of the Chamber of Commerce will honor F. W. Smith, regional vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, at a luncheon Monday noon in the Chamber of Commerce dining room. The guests of honor will be C. H. Mathews, Jr., assistant general traffic manager of the railroad at Philadelphia, and Maj. C. E. McCullough, general passenger agent at Washington.

Sound Films Get Harris Debut Monday

An error in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph gave the date of the introduction in the Harris of Photophone, talk and sound picture device, as of December 30, instead of December 3, which is next Monday. In order to properly reveal the tone qualities of Photophone, which registers an octave higher and an octave lower than any other similar device, the Harris Amusement Company has booked "Hit of the Show" for presentation next week. It has a prologue and epilogue, with the talk synchronized to the pictures.

THANKSGIVING SPIRIT :: INSPIRES :: HOLLYWOOD LASSIES

Joan Crawford, M-G-M star, portrays the spirit of Thanksgiving in the classic style of Ceres, ancient Greek goddess of the harvest.

Gwen Lee and Dorothy Sebastian illustrate the aftermath of Thanksgiving, with the noble turkey reduced to debris and nothing useful left but the wishbone. They appear to be wishing very hard, if there be any degree to wishing. Well, you can hope their wish will come true.

Josephine Dunn says she has the largest turkey in Hollywood this year. If the one in the picture is Josephine's bird she'll have holiday fowl left for Christmas feasting.

Doris Niles Ballet Here Thanksgiving

Doris Niles and her company of 30 performers will be the holiday attraction tomorrow night in Syria Mosque, under the management of May Beegle. The program will open with a divertisement by the entire ballet. One of the features will be the "Japanese Cherry Tree Fete" in three parts. This will be given by Doris Niles and ensemble. The program will include nine solo numbers by Doris Niles and ensemble groups by the ballet, orchestra and sextet of Spanish guitarists.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Has Busiest Week

THIS week is a grand finale to the month November, as far as society is concerned, don't you agree? Gay as Monday and particularly yesterday were, still more entertainment is in store. The hours of Thanksgiving Day, Friday and Saturday will be stuffed fuller, even though you may think it impossible, than any week-end this season.

When Thanksgiving is over with its family dinners, and debutante parties, and good cheer, Friday will offer a ball for the pleasure of the social world. Of course, I'm referring to the benefit dance St. Margaret's Hospital Dispensary Board will give in the University Club that evening.

Although one usually thinks of women when speaking of a society benefit, a group of men will form one of the committees—the floor committee.

Shirley Austin, Sidney Stewart, Harvey Childs III, Howard H. McClintic, Jr., Robert McClintic, Stewart McClintic, Raymond Moreland, Donald S. Rodgers, W. Ford Moreland, Charles S. Wunder, Louis Nohl, Major R. H. MacDonald, Frank F. Brooks, Jr., Stanley Brown, Alan Humphreys and Arthur Woolfolke are the committee members.

BEFORE talking over the annual holiday sale of the Woman's Exchange and the tea Mrs. John Phillip Hoelzel gave for Jane Allderdice, debutante daughter of the Taylor Allderdices, yesterday, I wonder if you've heard that there'll be but one dance at the Pittsburgh Club this year? The date for that, as I've mentioned before, is December 14. Formerly there were at least two and usually three of these events, you'll remember.

THE tea for Jane Allderdice, Mrs. Hoelzel gave yesterday afternoon in her Beechwood boulevard home. The bud, who received with her hostess, wore green and carried Parnet roses, heather, sunshine chrysanthemums and burnt amber colored roses. Mrs. Hoelzel's gown was of rich brown velvet, trimmed with lace. She wore a corsage of Cattleya orchids. The room in which they received, was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums. Orchid chrysanthemums decorated the living room and the sunroom where an orchestra, concealed by palms, ferns and chrysanthemums played during the afternoon.

At the tea table, arranged in the billiard room, the walls of which were transformed with foliage entwined latticework, were Mrs. William G. Costin and Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, mother of the debutante.

MOST of the members of the social set couldn't decide which of the two important afternoon events to attend, and so managed to squeeze both of them in. The Woman's Exchange sale was held this year in the Hotel Schenley. Last year the marquee built for the wedding of Sarah Mellon Scaife was the scene of this annual event, don't you remember?

As in former years, all sorts of delightful novelties and hand-made things helped solve Christmas shopping difficulties. The debutantes of this year and a group of the girls who came out last season were there, modeling gowns and negligees.

After shopping was over many of the women played bridge.

ATTRACTIVE though Pittsburgh may be at the height of the social season, other cities still invite some society folks.

Helen MacAfee, daughter of the William Harrison MacAfees, is in Philadelphia, where she will remain until after the Thanksgiving holiday. She's the guest there of her aunt, Mrs. John Blair MacAfee. Her engagement to H. Kendrn Binns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hussey Binns, was announced, don't you recall, at the end of the summer?

MOLLIE CULLUM, daughter of the James Barlow Cullums, of Sewickley, who came out in New York this month, has not yet returned home. Her mother is now with her, I hear. They'll be back in Pittsburgh, though, in plenty of time for the Yuletide season—the second week of December.

* * *

ANOTHER debutante party of yesterday was the luncheon which Mrs. W. H. Brown, Jr., gave in her home in Fifth and Amberson avenues for her sister, Louise Reed. There were 16 guests, I understand, and the table was decorated with chrysanthemums. Louise and Mrs. Brown are daughters of the W. Edgar Reeds.

A TEA planned for mid-December is that of Mrs. Uriah W. Tinker, who will entertain in her home in Dallas avenue. The date chosen is December 17. Mrs. Tinker's daughters, Mrs. Paul Sexton Hardy and Mrs. Herbert Thacker Hern, Jr., will receive with her.

I understand that the Tinkers and another daughter, Betty, are planning to leave shortly after the first of the year for their winter home in La Jolla, Cal.

MRS. JOHN FRANCIS MERZ, of Edgewood, entertained with a bridge party and shower last week in honor of her niece, Miss Julia Schubart, of South Millvale avenue, whose marriage to Frederick Maloney, of Crafton, will be solemnized tomorrow. There were 15 guests.

* * *

AMONG the girls returning today from the Maryland College for Women at Lutherville, are Miss Fredericka Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Griffith, of Ellsworth avenue; Miss Ethel Beerbower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Beerbower, of Thomas boulevard, and Miss Betty Barclay, daughter of Dr. Abram Barclay, of King street.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the marriage of Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lewis, of Gordon street, Edgewood, and Paul Chester Boos, of Wilkinsburg, which was solemnized Saturday afternoon in the Edgewood Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Ralph Waldo Lloyd. After an eastern trip, Mr. and Mrs. Boos will be at home in Gordon street.

THE marriage of Miss Adelaide Gorman, daughter of Mrs. Adelaide Gorman, of Mt. Oliver, and Joseph P. Coyne, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Coyne, of Knoxville, will be solemnized tomorrow morning in St. Canice's Catholic Church by the Rev. Joseph W. Lowney, of Monessen, cousin of the bridegroom. Miss Josephine Gorman will be her sister's maid of honor and Raymond O'Connor is to be his cousin's best man. After a short eastern motor trip, Mr. and Mrs. Coyne will be at home in Millbridge street.

* * *

MRS. LOUISE CHAPIN MORSE, of San Antonio, Tex., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Eloise Lawton Morse, to Lieut. Russell Owen Smith, United States Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith, of Hobart street. A spring wedding is planned. Lieut. Smith, who is a West Point man, is stationed at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio.

* * *

DIVISION NO. 8, A. O. H., will hold its annual reception and card party tonight in the Rittenhouse. John R. Haugh is general chairman. Euchre and "500" will be played.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. ERNEST F. Tretow, of North Fairmount avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Anna Tretow, and Roger Gevaudan, of North Braddock, which was solemnized this morning in SS. Peter and Paul Church.

Dancer Entertains For Jewish Women

A NEW and unique program—"Episodes and Compositions in Dance Form," by Angna Enters—was enjoyed by more than 300 members of the Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Women, yesterday. The occasion was the section's annual president's day observance, honoring Mrs. Raymond Kaufmann, and was held in the William Penn Hotel. As toastmistress, Mrs. Leo Half introduced a former president, Mrs. Edwin Zugsmith, who offered the invocation; Mrs. J. de S. Freund, who spoke on behalf of the past presidents, and Mrs. Kaufmann, who delivered her annual message. Mrs. Half also read many congratulatory messages received from other organizations and absentees, among the latter being Mrs. Enoch Rauh, who was president of the section for 19 years.

Miss Enters, artistic in the extreme, strikes the unusual note in that her interpretations are not descriptive of the music to which she dances, but that they show a kinship between the women of the various periods she portrays and the woman of today. She is original rather than traditional; a mime before she is a dancer. A change of expression, a gesture of an exceedingly graceful hand, a posture or movement of the body—and a portrait is brought into animation. One senses an undercurrent of humor in almost all the "episodes," even in those less intentionally obvious than "field day" or "cake walk." There is even a suspicion of this humor in the smile and quick, at times almost disturbingly sudden, movements of the "Queen of Heaven," quite the loveliest thing Miss Enters does. Her "Piano Music" is another fascinating bit of artistry of her own indescribable sort. Miss Enters creates her atmosphere with no stage setting other than the necessary chair or bench, but always in costume. Kenneth Yost's piano accompaniments and entr'acte numbers added much to the program.

SEVERAL state officers will be present for the victory tea which the Allegheny County Women's Christian Temperance Union will give Friday afternoon in the Roosevelt Hotel. Samson, of the Council of Churches; Mrs. John D. Pennington, and Mrs. M. G. Schisler, president of the Union Missionary Society. Stark, Mrs. Marion Foster Smith and Mrs. Henry Whitehouse. A candy sale will feature the affair.

CLUB women in general are interesting themselves in the benefit bridge which is to be given Monday afternoon, December 10, in the Hotel Schenley to raise funds for Torrance House, the home for blind women. Miss Lyde Kerr Wilson is general chairman, and is being assisted by a large number of workers. The Sarah Sloan scholarship Club has undertaken the responsibility for a candy table, and the president, Mrs. John S. Sloan, has appointed the three vice presidents, Mrs. Walter R. Fleming, Mrs. D. Elwin Miller and Mrs. David I. McCahill as co-chairmen.

A VERY fine program by Helen Bell Rush, soprano, and P. Milton Tully, tenor, with Aneurin Bodycomb accompanying, marked the guest day held yesterday by the Oakmont Woman's Club in the First Presbyterian Church. The past presidents, Mrs. J. M. Hamilton, Mrs. A. O. Bosworth, Mrs. M. F. Carroll, Mrs. F. N. Pilgrim and Mrs. James Lees, were the honor guests. Guests also included the families of members and presidents of out-of-town clubs.

Credo Speaker Hits At Bankruptcy Act

Manager H. M. Oliver of the adjustment bureau of the Credit Association of Western Pennsylvania expressed strenuous opposition to the section of the National bankruptcy act which gives landlords preference over other creditors, in addressing the Credo Club in the Chamber of Commerce. He contended that it is wrong to pay landlords a years rent in advance and to make settlements out of assets before consideration is given other creditors as the act provides.

"SEEING IS BELIEVING"

Kaufmann Looby submits itself to this test on the Price Question

Thousands of Pittsburgh women have never even visited this store because from much sad experience elsewhere, they have always associated "exclusiveness" with high pricing.

The only exclusive thing about Kaufmann Looby is the merchandise.

Our progress is the result of Price Appeal—in connection with good taste and chic.

WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD—comparative shopping will prove it.

We have demonstrated to the entire satisfaction of fair minded women of modest means, that it IS possible to provide ultra-smart, dashing modes, at prices well within their ability to pay.

Those who deal here know this. They come back. They send their friends.

The good word is going around that Kaufmann Looby is the ONE place in town which puts the highest standards of distinction within reach of the average woman's purse.

RACING fleets are meeting today at harbors that once lured early Spanish adventurers—meeting on turquoise-blue waters that belonged to swashbuckling pirates not so many years ago. Only a few hours from winter lies this enchanted land, the American Riviera, where there are hunting, fishing, golf, tennis and other sports that men and women enjoy when sunshine is soft and warm. Luxuriant semi-tropical vegetation. Many points of historic interest. During recent years over $10,000,000.00 have been invested in erecting modern hotels for winter tourists. Also excellent clubs, apartments and cottages. Send coupon for illustrated book about the Gulf Coast.

SPECIAL RADIO PROGRAMS TODAY AND THANKSGIVING

STATIONS CARD EXCELLENT FEATURES

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

SCAN the programs carefully today for in them you will find some real features. Pittsburgh stations have assembled a wealth of gifted artists for your entertainment. They have contracted for the best programs over the national networks and have started a big effort to make your holidays delightful.

Try to recall the day that you could turn the dials and bring in even a third of the excellent features carded for today and tomorrow. They are almost too numerous to mention. Prominent speakers and singers, the Penn State Military Band, the Pitt-Penn State game, "Gentleman Jim" at Keith's, Chicago Civic Opera, the Water Boys, Phil Spitalny, Capitol Limited Trio, Penn-Cornell pep meeting, special church and choral services, Ganna Walska and Belle Baker on the same program, the Penn-Cornell football contest, Dave Dreyer, special hymn-sing, Ruth Etting and a host of others. Maybe we have forgotten some important jokes. It wouldn't surprise us.

While we are in this hustle-bustle of the holidays let us stop to give thanks, along with other things, to the capable, competent managers and owners of radio stations in Pittsburgh who have provided us with entertainment the last year. We might mention P. A. Boyd, the always-busy-in-a-hurry publicity man at KDKA, and G. Dare Fleck, program manager, who has been telling radio "since Hector was a pup," and over at WCAE, Miss Frances Doherr, one of the few women station managers in the country, who fills her position mighty well; her capable assistant, Miss Merrilou at WJAS, the genial Tom Morris and the deep-thinking "Hi way" Clark; at KQV, Mr. Scott, Mr. Cooper and Mr. Magee. We agonize again, we may have forgotten some persons. But we just stopped to think what these seldom-noticed announcers on our local stations will think when they read this. But they have a consolation, they get the good fan mail and the station manager seldom hears the good things, always the adverse criticisms. So that should balance things.

Before we "sign off" for a day of rest let us remind you that Ganna Walska and Belle Baker are not to be heard on Pittsburgh stations. They are scheduled to sing over WTAM, Cleveland, immediately following the Penn-Cornell game. This will be about 4 o'clock.

Evidence showed that Steel had stolen a parked car and crashed through a red light, colliding with Miss Bean's machine. She died the next day of a fractured skull.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Nov. 28.—A charge of circulating anonymous campaign literature which former Postmaster Patrick J. Dunn, Strasburg, placed against Thomas Adams, this city, was dropped by Dunn, when he learned that the Tuscarawas county Ku Klux Klan had adopted a resolution against such practice.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, nasty blood, hyperacid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Is your radio set a year old?

If it is, and is still using its original vacuum tubes, it needs an entire new set of RCA Radiotrons. Do not leave any old tubes in with the new ones. They are a drag on the new tubes.

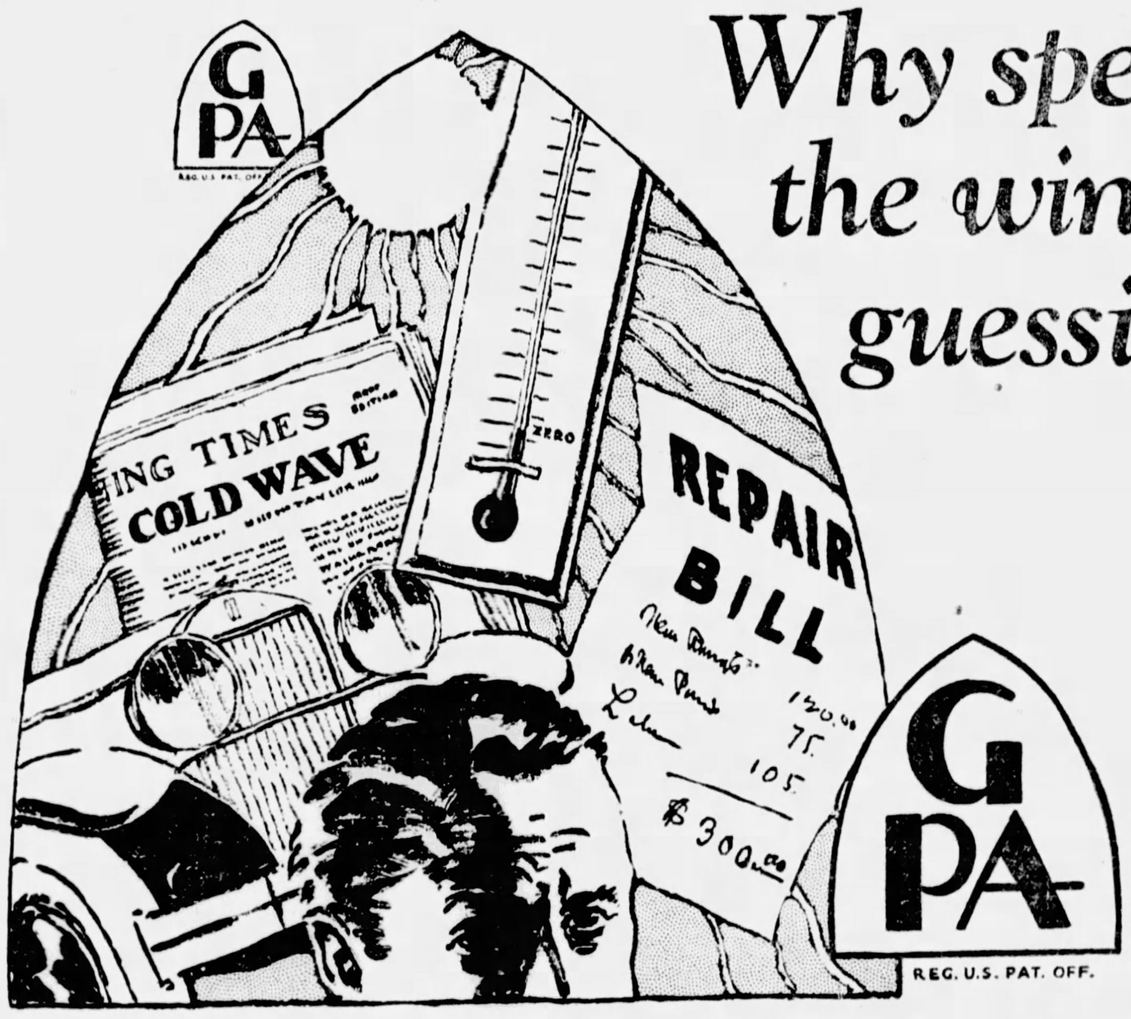
"Kolster is a fine set"



Insist on this seal. It appears only on standard glycerine solutions vouched for by the Glycerine Producers' Association as especially adapted for automobile use.

Why spend the winter guessing?

Give your car this permanent, safe, anti-freeze protection. No evaporation, no odor, no constant worry. Harmless to car and finish. Does not boil away.

RADIATOR Glycerine
THE SAFE ANTI-FREEZE

End freeze-up worry with the anti-freeze that won't evaporate . . . .

ALMOST every winter driver uses some kind of anti-freeze. Yet every year thousands of these drivers sadly watch the family car towed to the garage with a frozen motor—and a repair bill to come.

They thought they were protected. But their protection faded away—because they depended on an anti-freeze that would evaporate, and did.

Why spend another winter of worrying about a freeze-up when it is so easy to make your car permanently freeze-proof with only one filling of Radiator Glycerine.

Radiator Glycerine will not evaporate. You don't have to put in more every time there is a cold snap. You don't have to guess whether it is up to strength or not. It won't deteriorate. As long as your cooling system does not leak you are absolutely certain of positive, permanent freezing protection.

Here is real safety

Safe against freezing, safe against evaporation, Radiator Glycerine is safe to use in your car. You know that glycerine is so bland and harmless that it is used in foods.

It cannot corrode any part of the cooling system or destroy the car finish. It gives off no unpleasant odors or poisonous fumes.

Amundsen used glycerine for the motors of the airship Norge when he flew to the North Pole. It is recommended in automobile instruction books and its virtues are pointed out in Letter Circular 28 of the U. S. Bureau of Standards. Get it from your garage or ask any distributor for information.

Fifty years of Pioneering and Achievement

The original Tide Water Company was organized in 1878. It is among the oldest in the industry. It laid the first pipe line across the Allegheny Mountains. It carried the first pipe line to Atlantic tide water. It began to build its refinery at Bayonne, N. J., when only an old farmhouse and a marsh occupied the town site. Always it has pioneered . . . in producing, in refining, in selling. And so prudent, so far-seeing has been its direction that Tide Water today stands as one of the most powerful and successful oil companies in the entire world.

Today Tide Water owns, or controls, its own sources of supply. It operates a great fleet of tank steamers to every corner of the world. The equipment at the Tide Water Refinery at Bayonne is of the finest and most advanced type. Leading technical colleges send their students and teachers to study Tide Water methods, machines, and craftsmanship.

Tide Water distribution is world wide. Its thousands of outlets, wholesale and retail, are rapidly growing in number. And its continued increase in volume of retail sales indicates the growing preference of the motoring public for Tide Water's featured products . . . VEEDOL MOTOR OIL and TYDOL GASOLINE.

Today Tide Water is particularly proud to be able to commemorate the Fiftieth Anniversary of the company . . . with the finest motor fuel in its history . . . Hi-test TYDOL, a true premium gasoline . . . at no premium in price!

ROAST YOUR TURKEY UPSIDE-DOWN, ADVICE TO CITY'S HOUSEWIVES

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1928

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

MRS. JOHN S. SLOAN KAREN FLADOES

A tough, old turkey is almost certain to ruin the Thanksgiving dinner, Karen Fladoes is telling Mrs. John S. Sloan, prominent local club woman. Rough, scaly feet are a sure sign of age, both women agreed.

SINGEING TURK'S PIN FEATHERS

Soft, pliable breastbones are found in turks less than a year old, Miss Fladoes says. Here Miss Fladoes singes pinfeathers, preparing for the pan.

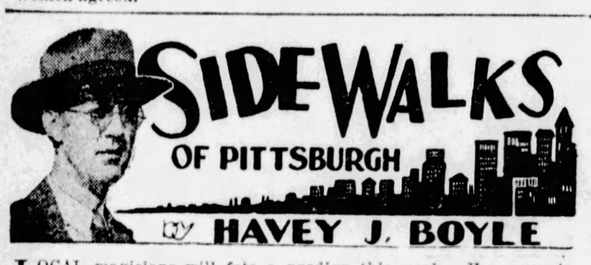
TASTY STUFFING IMPORTANT!

Stuffing is an important step in preparing the main piece d'resistance for Thanksgiving. Miss Fladoes, home service director in Utility Hall, Philadelphia Building, suggests several.

ROASTING TURKEY UPSIDE DOWN!

The turkey should lie breast downward when it is ready for the oven, making the breast juicier and more palatable, according to Miss Fladoes. Just before the roasting is done, turn Mr. Turk over and brown the other side.



LOCAL magicians will fete a prodigy this week. Her name is Betty Jane Kolar, of Chicago, who is aged but 6. Even at this age Betty Jane can conjure a pair of rabbits out of a stove pipe hat and in the twinkling of an eye transform a handkerchief into bunting which represents the flags of all nations. The ace of spades in her nimble fingers becomes the deuce of hearts and as for the bowl of water which comes seemingly from nowhere, Betty Jane presents in a flash a veritable Niagara.

Such information comes from Mrs. J. B. McKillips, of South Linden avenue, who, incidentally, is the owner of an extensive library. Mrs. McKillips has 3,000 volumes in her home. Her favorite author is Robert Louis Stevenson.

IT WAS Mr. Stevenson, incidentally, who bothered our dreams for many a night, after we had seen and read: "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." The delicate Englishman's conception of a character who was either all good or all bad scared the life out of us for years.

Even now in the early hours of a still morning when the book at hand takes an eerie turn it is not the sinister character in the book who begins creaking the door or staring through the window-panes, but rather it is the makeup effected by Thomas Shea of Frederick Paulding as Mr. Hyde that causes us to turn off the light and retire cautiously but quickly to our boudoir.

In fact, if ever a victim of a holdup, it seems here that we shall breathe a sigh of relief if only the bandit or robber whispers through the darkness: "This is Jake the Robber and not Mr. Hyde."

Betty Jane, the sleight-of-hand performer, recalls the difference in children. Here is a six-year-old child out making a living while at home is a big girl of eight who in all those years hasn't earned a penny. What are children coming to these days?

IN TOWN is Basil Woon, newspaperman, who knows Paris as a McIntyre knows New York. There is a rumor that Mr. Woon is acting as public relations counsel for Peggy Hopkins Joyce, who is at the local opera house this week. Mr. Woon reports that during his long stay in Paris, a stay that allowed him to write a good book about Paris, he met more Pittsburghers and more Californians than any other American-born men. He was unkind enough to say, also, that he met a great many Pittsburghers in a famous bar of the French capital. There must be some mistake about this. Most of us know that Pittsburghers when they go to Paris visit only the art treasures.

ROAST TURKEY UPSIDE DOWN

Housewives, if you want a tasty dish to set before your king, roast tomorrow's turkey upside down!

This advice comes from one of the city's foremost experts in the culinary line and may sound preposterous, but nevertheless is a suggestion worthy of household consideration. Miss Karen Fladoes, home service director at Utility Hall, Philadelphia Building, tenders the advice and Mrs. John S. Sloan, prominent Pittsburgh club woman, is one of the many housewives to recommend it.

"Selecting the turkeys is one of the most important adjuncts to a good dinner," Miss Fladoes declares. "Of course, everyone knows that the bird should be young, but it is hard to tell just how to determine this. It is my custom to examine the feet—if they are rough and heavily scaled, you may be almost certain Mr. Turk's age has reached the advanced stage.

"Pick turkey with fresh, young looking feet and examine it closely to make sure the underpart of the skin is well mottled with fat—clean, wholesome looking yellowish fat!"

PREPARES BIRD

After this comes the actual preparation of the bird, Miss Fladoes explained as she set to work in the model kitchen of Utility Hall. She looked Mr. Turk over thoroughly from gizzard to tail, searching for pin-feathers, etc., left after rough dressing at the poultry shop. She held the plump carcass over an oven flame to singe tiny pin-feathers "too small to pick," she explained. This done, she again washed the turkey thoroughly inside and out, and finished this part of her task by drying the prepared fowl with a cloth.

The next step is preparation of the stuffing. Miss Fladoes suggests three recipes, according to taste. They follow:

BREAD DRESSING.

Grind one bunch of celery and one small onion through food chopper—crumble loaf of stale bread, melt cup of butter and combine celery, onion and bread; season and add a little water if necessary, to moisten.

CHESTNUT DRESSING

Three cups of boiled chestnuts.
One and a half cups of bread crumbs.
One teaspoonful of sugar.
One-half cup of milk.
One-half cup of butter.
Mash chestnuts and crumbs together, add seasonings, milk and butter; mix well.

OYSTER DRESSING.

Three cups of stale bread crumbs.
One pint of oysters,
Salt and pepper.
One-half cup of butter.
One egg.
Water to moisten if necessary; mix well.

READY FOR OVEN

Miss Fladoes says the turkey should be well stuffed and then trussed—its legs secured firmly over the opening with twine, to prevent the stuffing from running out and the wings skewered into place across the breast. Surplus stuffing is placed around the turkeys in the pan and the bird its ready for the oven.

Now comes the most important part of the job. Miss Fladoes says it is extremely important to remember to place the turkey in the pan upside down—in other words, lay it breast down, to insure keeping the breast meat juicy and palatable.

"Hard, dried-out breast meat spoils a good turkey," Miss Fladoes declared. "If the turkey is roasted upside down, if you wish to call it that, you may be reasonably sure the meat will be juicy and tender. You should turn the bird over just before the roasting is finished to brown the breast well and give it that appetizing appearance, so eagerly looked forward to about this time of the year."

LAST RUN CAR PRACTICE IS OPPOSED

A protest against an alleged practice of street car motormen of refusing to take on passengers when en route to car barns at the end of their runs, was voiced at the monthly meeting of the West View Board of Trade Monday night.

In their anxiety to get to the barns, members of the board declared, the car men have been passing up residents of the borough waiting for cars to take them to points along the route to the barns.

This, it was pointed out, is in direct violation of the company rules. A complaint to the Pittsburgh Railways Company was authorized. Otherwise, the board held, the service recently has been improved.

The board commended the borough Council for authorizing the grading of Center avenue paralleling the tracks of the street car company. It is the intention ultimately to pave this thoroughfare. The trolley tracks were laid on a private right of way obtained by the company before West View became a borough, and it has been necessary to make numerous fills and cuts to make the roadway on each side passable.

Five members of the board of 15 directors of the board were renominated as follows: Robert W. Hill, H. L. Creiling, C. A. McClain, Harry J. Wagner, Jr., and W. F. Hunt. They will be elected at the next meeting.

Auto Injures Son, Father Asks $35,000

Walter Svelich II, by his father, Matthew Svelich, has entered suit in Common Pleas Court for $35,000 damages against Jacob A. Milbert, of West View, for a broken right leg and other hurts, when the Milbert automobile knocked the boy down December 4, 1926, at East and Ohio streets. It is alleged the defendant's car was being driven in a reckless manner.

2 CARRICK WOMEN WIN NATIONAL BRIDGE TITLE

Mrs. H. D. Stahl, 122 Boulevard, Carrick, and Miss Margaret Beech, 106 Boulevard, Carrick, finished first in the women's pair championship for the United States at the second annual tournament of the American Auction Bridge League at the Hotel Cleveland, Cleveland, O., Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week.

They were awarded a large silver trophy cup. It is to be held by them for one year, and to be played for again next year in Chicago. This trophy is called the Cotton Davis tropay.

In a team of four with two Cleveland women—Mrs. Charles William Nokes and Miss Marie Keyern—Mrs. Stahl and Miss Beech also won the women's team championship of the United States. For this victory they were awarded the Charles Coffin trophy, another large silver cup, also to be played for again next year.

Mrs. Stahl and Miss Beech brought the Charles Coffin trophy with them. They will hold it for six months, then deliver it to the Cleveland women for the remaining six months of the year.

The game was played in duplicate. This means that the cards were shuffled but once, and the different contestants were required to play the same hands. In this way luck was eliminated, and victory was achieved by skill alone.

In the entire tournament there were more than 200 contestants, including both men and women. The foremost bridge authorities of the country took part, among them Wilbur C. Whitehead of New York City, regarded as dean of bridge experts in this country, and Baron von Zedwitz, the former Austrian star, who also represented New York. All parts of the country were represented by the players. Not a few came from the Pacific Coast.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 28.

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving. Mr. Coolidge asked us to thank the Lord but to kinder let a hint fall to Him also that we were aware that a Republican administration had assisted Him in procuring this plentiful bounty.

But the poor Democrat (I don't mean him as an individual, I mean just as a Democrat), the President could have just as well set by a minute as a whole day for him to offer gratitude for what's been coming to him.

He wouldn't have known what to have done with the other thirty seconds, anyway. But all these storms and wrecks is that a Republican visitation? But like my two good Black Crow friends, "maybe I shouldn't have brought that up."

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

Madge's Airplane Ride With Carroll Is Halted When Her Father Becomes Ill

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Madge Sayre, young and pretty, awakens on the morning of her twenty-first birthday resenting the dingy New York apartment she shares with her father, an unsuccessful inventor. Madge craves thrills and unexpectedly finds one when she attends a party given by her friend, Frances Storrs. It is in the person of Carroll Dudley, handsome artist, aviator and "man about town." Carroll is impressed with Madge's youthful beauty and tells her he had been waiting to meet her all his life. Meanwhile the party becomes wilder and he asks her to take an airplane ride with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"THEN come!" he invited her. "My car is outside."

They rose, and Madge tingled with excitement.

"But you pay as you enter," Carroll smiled, looking down at her.

Stooping suddenly, he kissed her red mouth.

A little shudder ran through Madge's body. For a fleeting second she thrilled as she never had before. As he held her to him, she closed her eyes and for that second lost consciousness of all except the burning touch of his lips on hers.

All this, Madge decided later, with her trick of likening emotions to colors, was orchid; but then came the reaction. Pride was there, and vanity. Was she to be won so lightly?

She moved away, her lips twisting scornfully.

"Do you usually behave like this?" she asked, with a deliberate drawl. "Doesn't it occur to you, Carroll, that you might find our first if a girl is in the mood?"

He laughed. Easy conquests had always been his, and had not the girl made it obvious that she preferred talking to him to joining in the party?

"You little white devil!" He chuckled. "Madge, you curved delight, for a moment you scared me! But now I know. You're like all women—a hypocrite!"

He took a step towards her, but Madge held up a warning finger.

"One moment, Mr. Carroll Dudley! I thought you were going to take me on my first flight. Of course, if you have to be paid for it—that's an entirely different matter."

"I have never met anyone quite like you," he retorted. "I did not understand that you were just a little ice-maiden. But come, let's see if your nerve holds up in the air."

"Let's!" she agreed enthusiastically. "And as for being an ice-maiden, well, perhaps you're right, Carroll! Perhaps you are." She moved toward the studio, adding to herself, "and perhaps you aren't."

Carroll followed her in. The strip-poker party had drawn to its inevitable conclusion.

People in various states of drunkenness and disarray were grouped about, and, as almost invariably happens at a post-prohibition party, a quarrel was in lively progress. It seemed that some unknown sculptor had been making love to Gladys Peabody, and, while her husband made no objection, it was being resented bitterly by Alfred Turtle.

Every one was too interested in the row to notice the exit of Madge and Carroll, the former slipping through the room with a little grimace of disgust.

As they reached the street, a cool breeze caressed them, refreshed them after the atmosphere of the studio. Madge, who had contented herself with her one drink the whole night, was radiant.

"You are rosy rapture incarnate!" Carroll whispered as he helped her into his roadster.

As the car glided towards Seventh avenue, Carroll told her he had his hangar on a small estate he owned near Glen Cove on Long Island.

"I can change out there—but what about you?" he asked.

"I do think a sweater and a sport skirt would do more suitable than crepe—decline," Madge murmured smilingly. "Stop at my place and I will change in three seconds. Oh!" she went on excitedly, "I'm going to get a tremendous kick out of this!"

"Not half the kick I'm getting out of you," he assured her. "But it ought to be glorious up in the clouds this morning, you and I alone—alone among the cloud gods."

But Madge was doomed to disappointment. As the roadster drew to the curb outside the house, a taxi pulled up behind them.

Two men got out and Madge recognized them as John Hutton and Clinton Trex, associates of her father.

"Your father's pretty sick," Hutton announced. "We were having a farewell drink when he sort of keeled over."

Hot shame flooded Madge. That Carroll should see her father for the first time in that condition as the others hauled him from the cab! But shame gave way to anxiety when she realized that her father was more than intoxicated, was really ill.

Carroll helped carry the almost unconscious Jonathan Sayre upstairs. He got him into bed and managed to dismiss the officious helplessness of the other two men. It was Carroll who went to the telephone and summoned his own physician, and Carroll who comforted Madge until the doctor arrived.

"Nothing very serious," the physician informed the anxious girl at last. "Frankly, Miss Sayre, your father's heart won't stand so much alcohol. I have induced sleep by a hypodermic. He will be very depressed when he awakes, and you had better telephone me and let me know how he is. I will drop in about noon."

"So that ends our chance of flying," Madge said, as the doctor left the house.

She made coffee and served it to Carroll as she explained her father's weakness.

"But he is such a dear in spite of it all," she defended him loyally.

Carroll drew the conversation back to herself.

"To me it's a miracle that you reached the age of twenty-one without someone marrying you," he smiled. "But, even if you were married, I should have found you—I know I should."

"Had I been married, you mean you would have tried to flirt with me?" Madge flashed at him. "Oh, no! I believe married people should play the game with each other—as long as they stay married. So it wouldn't have done you a bit of good to have met me if I'd been married." Unmistakable warning was in her eyes.

Carroll laughed a little uneasily. "What a girl!" he complimented her. "Ice-maiden and prude, yet an exotic little curved darling, designed to set a man's heart aflame! How glad I am, then, that no man ever grabbed you and rushed you down to City Hall!"

"Come to think of it," Madge yielded a compliment to his own charm, "it's a little curious that you have never married—or have you?"

"No woman would ever risk it with me," he replied. "An artist makes a rotten husband, and I imagine they just couldn't see me."

When Madge sent him away, it was with a promise that at the first opportunity he would take her up in his plane.

Carroll drove quickly to his luxurious studio-apartment on Central Park South.

As he let himself in, the clock in the hall showed it to be shortly after eight.

Hardy, his English manservant, approached. "A lady is 'ere, sir." He coughed deprecatingly behind his hand. "Said she was Mrs. Dudley, sir, and insisted on waiting. 'Avin' no instructions to the contrary, sir, the lady is waiting in the studio, sir."

Carroll strode angrily into his vast and exquisitely furnished studio, where his wife sat languidly on a settee.

"You here!" he barked at her. "What the hell does this mean?"

CHAPTER III.

FOR nearly a week, Madge saw no more of Carroll Dudley, though two or three times a day he would telephone, while his flowers pleaded for him.

But Madge was thinking of her father.

"I'm through," he promised her as he lay in bed. "Just let me get well, and I'll show you how through I am. John Hutton's the same. We're both through, Madge, and we're going to stay on the wagon until the razor scheme is floated. Then we'll all go to Paris and drink some good stuff."

And towards the end of that week, Hutton, who owned a small place on the Connecticut coast, called in a shabby sedan and drove Sayre away to recuperate.

The same evening, Carroll Dudley called to take Madge to dinner.

"Are we dining in a restaurant?" she asked him.

"With your permission no," he replied, taking both her hands and kissing them. Listen, Ecstacy! I have outside my studio a cross between a balcony and a roof-garden—like one of the hanging gardens of Babylon. It is bad form to praise one's cook, but my simple Mamie knows her job, and Hardy will serve us silently. Will you come with me, and pretend we are in Babylon of long ago?"

"I'd love it; it sounds intriguing," Madge accepted.

"And afterwards," he went on, "there will be a full moon. Let's run out to the hangar and get the old ship. What more could a man ask? A moonlight night up in the clouds with you, Ecstacy!"

The absurd extravagance of his new name for her pleased and flattered her.

"I really think that I am half beginning to like you," she rippled.

He drove her swiftly through the streets, and as Hardy admitted them to Carroll's apartment, the luxury-loving Madge gave a little gasp of surprise and pleasure.

Thanksgiving! -:- By Madge Geyer

THERE'S so much to be thankful for on this day that it would be impossible to enumerate everything.

However, we who live in this modern day can be thankful that we don't have to suffer the privations which our Pilgrim forefathers did in order to build the wonderful nation which is ours today.

We can be thankful for the love that surrounds us on every side that helps us over and through the hard places.

To our friends, our family, our loved ones; to those who keep the Ship of State smoothly sailing through the troubled seas; to all those who in any way contribute to our happiness, our well-being, our spiritual welfare—all these do we owe our grateful thanks.

And may this Thanksgiving Day bring brightness and happiness and love to all for the coming years.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Unexpectedly Relieved of Junior's Care

THERE is no tonic to one's courage like the making of an irrevocable decision after being beset by directly opposing arguments concerning the question. As I walked from my own room to Junior's I felt not only my qualms fall away from me, but also my anger against Edith Fairfax for the unwarranted impertinence she had shown in our telephone interview, and the amused resentment which Dicky's outburst had engendered in me.

As I opened the door of his room where I had left Junior, a joyous autocrat sitting up in bed and demanding alternate stories from his adoring grandparents, I was met with a dramatic whispered "Sh-h" from Dicky's mother, and I saw that my small son whom I had expected to coax into his afternoon nap was already asleep.

My father's absences from home have prevented his close acquaintanceship with Junior's habits, but my mother-in-law knows as well as I do that when the boy once falls asleep it would take a Lindbergh reception to rouse him before his own time of waking. I knew, however, that she was enjoying her martyr complex and I therefore minced across the room with careful obedience of her admonition and whispered close to her ear.

"Come out on the balcony. We can hear him if he stirs or calls. I'm sure he won't waken."

She debated for a minute with the air of deciding Junior's future career, then nodded an assent. Giving her my hand I pulled her up from her chair. My father with his perfect old-school courtesy had risen when I entered, and now crossed noiselessly to us, and giving my mother-in-law his arm escorted her to the veranda, where I followed them after throwing Junior's window wide open to admit the air against which my mother-in-law has a secret old-fashioned prejudice which she is ashamed to voice, but which she always humors when she is in charge of her grandson.

"For goodness' sake, Margaret," my mother-in-law adjured me as I came through the door to the balcony, "do stop fiddling with those windows and sit down. Your father is so polite that he won't sit down as long as you're up, and he's too old a man to be kept standing like that."

I did not dare look at my father, for I knew the mirth in his eyes would bring my laughter dangerously near to explosion. It is an old fiction of Mother Graham's that my father, who is 15 years her junior, is of her own generation and she insists upon treating him as if he were as old and infirm as she is.

But I distinctly wished my captious mother-in-law to be humored upon this afternoon. I know that though Philip Veritzen has conquered her dislike of him by his punctilious courtesy and attentions to her, yet for a long time she cherished an almost venomous prejudice against him, and looked with much disfavor upon my work with him. But she is a woman of such innate justice despite her crochets, that she never has opposed my outside work, and I knew that if I succeeded in getting her approval of my going to the city for the working days of each week, I would have a most formidable ally when I again was compelled to meet Dicky's objections.

"I am so glad to have this chance of talking to you," I told her when we were settled comfortably in our chairs. "And I shall need Father too, after I have finished asking you about things. You see I am terribly upset and I want to ask your advice—"

"You may save your breath," my mother-in-law said drily. "Your father and I already have planned every detail about taking care of Richard Second this winter while you are at work in the city."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Simple Living Will Help High Blood Pressure Sufferers

LOTS of letters come to my office asking about high blood pressure. These communications give me the idea that most persons regard high blood pressure as a disease. I have before me a letter from a reader in New York City who wants to know about high blood pressure because he says he must work for his existence and wants to know what he can do to relieve the trouble and yet continue his activities.

DR. COPELAND

Sometimes I wish there were no instruments of precision. Certainly they should not be used by laymen. The clinical thermometer, the laboratory blood test, and the use of the instrument for measuring blood pressure, should not be employed except by persons who can understand the significance of the results obtained in using them.

If you do not feel well after a hard day's work and find your temperature is a couple of degrees above "normal," you are frightened half to death and regard yourself as on the verge of a serious illness. As a matter of fact, this much temperature may be the result of fatigue. In my opinion, a great many persons suffer from what may be called "fatigue temperature." A good night's rest will restore them to normal condition.

I have much the same feeling about blood pressure. There are passing effects of emotion, hard work, or worry that may change the pressure of the blood.

It must be borne in mind, too, that individual peculiarities, age and occupation have much to do with blood pressure. In short, simply to take the pressure and find it above or below "normal," means nothing in itself. It is necessary to know a lot about the individual, about the kidney action, about the state of the digestion, and particularly whether the teeth and tonsils are in proper condition.

Let us assume, however, that there is high blood pressure and that the blood tension is considerably higher than it is desirable to have it. What should be done about it?

The first thing is to find out some of the things I have mentioned. Almost all persons past middle age who have high blood pressure are likely to have bad teeth. Pussy gums, or abscessed roots, may be the source from which poisons are being taken into the system. There cannot be perfect health so long as such poisons are at work in the body. They are sure to undermine the health and vigor. They produce changes which may have high blood pressure as a symptom.

There is another factor, not well understood as yet, which no doubt is of vast importance in the production of changes in the blood pressure. I refer to the ductless glands, so called. The thyroid gland is the most familiar example of this group of glands, but there are others besides.

When there is a failure of the proper function of the ductless glands, high blood pressure may result. Experimentation is going on now to find a means of controlling the action of the ductless glands. All these matters are of importance when we consider this particular subject.

The important thing for my friend who has written to me is to live a simple life, controlling his emotions, avoiding overwork, and eating proper food. Then he may hope to go about his affairs without any danger. In other words, make it a point to live right and have the health good as possible, and don't worry simply because the blood pressure is high.

Answers to Health Queries

F. K. Q.—What will correct the habit of sleeping with the mouth open?

A.—The habit is often due to a nasal obstruction preventing proper breathing or a catarrhal condition. Have the nose and throat examined.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Proper Service

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Will you please give me the order in which a dinner is served?

2. Is it considered correct to serve from the kitchen or at the table?

3. If from the kitchen, which dishes are served to the right and which to the left of the guests?

4. Please tell me the order in which the silverware is laid?

5. Is it proper for a woman to entertain relatives of the man who is "paying her attention," especially if they have entertained her. M. J.

A DINNER is served in the following order of courses:

Hors d'Oeuvre.
Soup.
Fish Entree.
Roast.
Salad.
Coffee.

2. A formal dinner is served from the kitchen or pantry.

3. All dishes are presented at the left of the person served.

4. At the right of the service plate place the steel meat knife, with its sharp edge toward the plate; on the right of this knife place the entree knife; to the right of this, the soup spoon, with the bowl up, and last, an oyster fork or the piece of silver that is appropriate to the hors d'oeuvres to be served.

At the left of the service plate place the salad fork, and to its left place the meat fork, and then the fish fork. If there is an entree, the fork for this course is placed between the fish fork and the fork for the roast, and the salad fork is left to be brought in later.

5. Yes.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Daily Roast

NOTHING appears to give a man such a fit of sentimental indigestion these days, as "feasting his eyes" on the same woman seven days a week.

Alas, if a woman could only trust a man as she does her wristwatch! Just take what he says as POSSIBLY somewhere near the truth, and let it pass without argument.

* * *

No woman can see why her husband's stenographer should have to sit so CLOSE to him, to take his dictation, when he can be heard at home issuing dictates through a closed door 20 feet away.

HELEN ROWLAND

The shortest cut to a man's heart is via the SMILE-ROUTE, unlimited. Like her teeth and her dimples, most of a woman's other attractions are noticeable only when she smiles.

A man can no longer explain his change of heart by the old alibi that he has "outgrown" his wife; no man lives with any one wife long enough for that these days.

* * *

Human nature is just that mean, that a woman is never so gleefully happy as when she discovers that one of her dearest friends is fatter than SHE is.

* * *

A kiss may be technically a kiss, when it is in reality only an experiment, a habit, a pastime, or an impertinence.

* * *

A man's notion of an ideal "Home" is a place where he can hang his hat and dump his golfsticks, find his wife, his pipe and his conscience when he needs them, and bring a friend or a grouch when he pleases.

Beauty is only skin-deep, but amiability goes clear to the bone—and touches the heart.

Horoscopes

Thursday, November 29

THIS day may be memorable for the whirlwind action which may uproot the established order of affairs and plunge one into a fresh environment or to entirely new activities. These things may be suddenly precipitated and may result in benefits and worthwhile affiliations with large enterprises or important corporations, although these splendid opportunities may be negatived by a tendency to rash and turbulent behavior. Sign papers cautiously.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of important change or upheaval, suddenly precipitated with whirlwind force. This should redound to advantages and desirable new affiliations and contracts if they are not jeopardized by rash, hasty and impulsive moves or by contention and strife. Papers should be signed cautiously.

A child born on this day may be inclined to be clamorous, impulsive and quarrelsome and may make frequent changes abruptly.

Friday, November 30

ALTHOUGH the prominent place of the convertible planet Mercury, today in tune with Luna, points to many stirring activities, with trade, business and the professions under its accelerating impulse, yet other configurations of the important planets presage difficulties. This particularly in the matter of employments, which should be safeguarded. There is augury for pleasant and lively personal activities, but they should not be linked with too much frivolity.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very lively and active year both in business and personal interests, but they should be careful to protect the position and to be temperate in the matter of pleasurable indulgences.

A child born on this day may have many excellent graces, accomplishments and talents, but nevertheless it may find it difficult to prosper in employment.

Let your haste commend your duty.—Shakespeare.

CHEVROLET

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History

—a Six in the price range of the four!

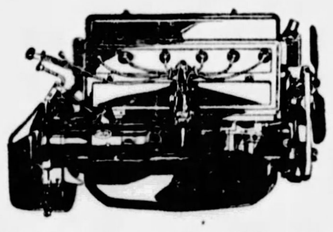
Although the whole country was looking forward to its presentation with eager expectation—

—although it had been freely predicted that the new Chevrolet would represent the most spectacular of all Chevrolet achievements—

—the announcement of The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History—a Six in the price range of the four—has proved to be the greatest sensation of America's greatest industry!

Everyone was familiar with Chevrolet's brilliant record of success. Everyone knew that Chevrolet had become the world's largest builder of automobiles by establishing, year after year, new standards of performance, beauty and quality in the low-priced field. But no one ever dreamed that it would be possible to provide, in the price range of the four, a six of such startling performance, such impressive appearance and such luxurious comfort.

When you learn the full details of this sensational new automobile, you will realize that Chevrolet has provided those qualities of six-cylinder smoothness, reserve power and flashing acceleration which heretofore could only be enjoyed in cars of much higher price.



Chevrolet's new six-cylinder fully enclosed valve-in-head engine has a high compression non-detonating head. Its piston displacement is 194 cu. in. and it develops 46 H. P. at low engine speed.

The Outstanding Chevrolet is powered by a new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine of advanced design. Over one hundred different engines were created, built, tested and improved during the past four years before the present design was adopted. Millions of miles of testing at the General Motors Proving Ground and in various parts of the country have definitely established its stamina, dependability and economy under every possible condition of usage.

It develops 32% more power than the previous Chevrolet motor and affords sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration. And despite this vastly improved performance, an economy averaging better than twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline!

Marvelous new bodies by Fisher are an outstanding feature of the Outstanding Chevrolet.

Numerous engineering advancements make possible these amazing performance results. A new non-detonating cylinder head provides high compression performance without special fuels. The new hot-spot manifold assures complete fuel vaporization. The new and larger carburetor incorporates an automatic acceleration pump, and an improved venturi choke for quicker winter starting; while a new AC gasoline pump, with filter, assures adequate fuel supply no matter how steep the hill.

A new heavier crankshaft statically and dynamically balanced makes torsional vibration imperceptible at all speeds—due partly to its exceptional size and partly to the relative shortness of its crank-throws. The entire rocker arm mechanism is automatically lubricated; and this, combined with the new camshaft, new large valve tappets, new fabric camshaft gear and the new muffling system results in delightful silence of operation. Long engine life is provided for by a new type AC air cleaner and by a new method of continuous self-purification of the crankcase oil—while an improved system of crankcase ventilation minimizes oil dilution, particularly during winter use.

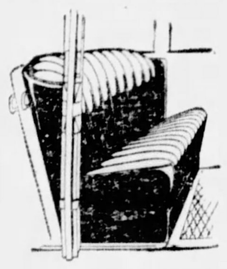
Impressive as it is, however, this superb power plant is only one phase of the advanced engineering revealed in the Outstanding Chevrolet. Big, powerful, easily adjustable four-wheel brakes give positive, safe control—with silent operation assured under all conditions by semi-molded linings and a new brake band design. The steering mechanism is fully equipped with ball bearings and the new steering wheel is of the flat slender rimmed type—an important contribution to ease of control.

The new and quieter transmission contains heavier gears of vanadium steel while the driving gear and pinion are made of 3½% nickel steel—the finest gear material known to metallurgical science. And, also, there are provided such costly car features as two-beam headlamps with toe button control for "dimming," new type cooling thermostat, semi-automatic spark control, theft-proof Electrolock, waterproof spark-coil construction, larger shielded safety gasoline tank in rear, improved differential lubrication and many other features of comparable importance.

If the Outstanding Chevrolet offered only this impressive array of mechanical advancements, it would still be hailed as a sensational achievement in modern automotive design. But, in addition, it offers an order of beauty, distinction and style never before attained in any low-priced automobile! The long high hood and the gleaming chromium plated radiator shell furnish the key note of rugged smartness and grace. The rakish unbroken lines, emphasized by distinctively grouped hood louvres, are suggestive of speed and alertness. The divided body moulding and concave front pillars reflect the vogue so widely favored by leading custom builders; while the larger, longer, lower bodies are themselves masterful examples of the craftsmanship for which Fisher is internationally renowned.

The seats are wider and more restful. The driver's seat in all closed models is easily adjustable, forward or back—a feature recently introduced on a few of the high-priced cars. The redesigned dash carries an attractive grouping of all control instruments indirectly lighted including the new motor temperature indicator.

The new slender rimmed flat steering wheel and improved dash assure the utmost driving convenience. On the indirectly lighted instrument panel are grouped all controls, including the motor heat indicator and theft-proof Electrolock.



The driver's seat in all closed models is easily adjustable forward or back by means of a handle regulator. This brings the clutch and brake pedals within proper reach for all drivers.

Climaxing sixteen years of continuous progress . . . revealing new performance, new beauty, new quality and dependability . . . priced so amazingly low as to be within the reach of everybody, everywhere—

—this sensational new Chevrolet represents the greatest dollar-for-dollar value ever offered in any automobile!

We cordially invite you to visit our showroom and secure complete and detailed information regarding this great new car which will be ready for delivery beginning January 1st.

DOCTORS SAY TREATMENT
RELIEVES PILES

Bleeding, Itching, Painful Hemorrhoids Treated Internally Now.

QUICK RELIEF FOR ALL SUFFERING WITH PILES

"The new internal treatment in simple tablet form for various kinds of hemorrhoids and piles is wonderful," declares a well known physician. "Having suffered years myself and tried most everything, you can imagine my delight and surprise when even I secured entire relief in a few days. Best of all, with the cause removed, the trouble has not returned," continued Dr. Joseph M. Weller.

It is nice to know that at last, no matter how long or how severely one has suffered, and without ugly operations or nasty salves or suppositories, various forms of itching, bleeding, painful, or protruding piles can be relieved, in a simple, scientific and harmless manner. Thanks to modern chemistry a substance has been found for coating tablets which is impervious to gastric juices, passing through the stomach and then dissolving in the bowels, thereby bringing herbal medicinal elements to help nature eliminate the cause and relieving the pain and irritation as no external application could possibly do.

Thousands of tests prove the internal way most effective for real and lasting results. So certain are results, several local drug stores are offering to refund the paltry 75 cents a full size bottle costs to any person not relieved completely. Certainly no one suffering the danger and agonizing pains and discomfort of piles or hemorrhoids need suffer longer. If druggist hasn't Colax Pile Pills, send 75 cents to nationally famous Colax Chemical Co., Inverewood, Md. with name and address for regular bottle, plain wrapper, return mail, with full directions.

Sage Tea Dandy
to Darken Hair

By DOROTHY LANG

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. It costs only 75 cents. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

ROBBER GRABS $200 IN CAFE

While two-score diners sat about last night an unidentified man grabbed $200 from the cash register in Bogler's restaurant, 126 South Highland avenue, and fled. He had finished dinner and asked Miss Rose Gismond, cashier, for a cigar. She opened the humidor as he reached for the opened cash drawer. In a state of shock Miss Gismond was taken to her home at 126 Lima street by William Bogler, proprietor.

any Cough medicine

(Take 2½ minutes to learn these important facts)

"Will it relieve my cough quickly?"	REM will, or you can have your money back. The fact that not one customer in a thousand ever wanted it back tells the story.
"Is it harmless?"	REM is,—there's positively nothing in it to hurt you.
"Is it an experiment?"	REM is no experiment. 43 years of pharmaceutical experience are back of it.
"Does it soothe the irritation and soreness?"	That's one of the most noticable qualities of REM. It clings to the throat, starting relief quickly. Right away you'll notice a soothing, cooling effect.
"Does it 'cut the phlegm'?"	REM does. It clears the air-passages and thus makes it easier to breathe during the day and sleep soundly at night.
"Does it taste bad?"	Not REM! It's easy to take. Even children seldom have to be coaxed to take it.
"Is it economical?"	REM is. Simple coughs usually yield to a single bottle. Remedies that don't help are expensive at any price.
"Does it claim more than it can do?"	REM is no "cure-all". We frankly tell you it's no good for anything but a cough,—but how remarkably good it is for that!
"Are all cough medicines pretty much alike?"	Indeed they aren't! No other cough medicine on the market has the same formula as REM, and "it's the formula that counts!"

NOW you know why . . .

HILL CUT ORDINANCE ORDERED TO DRY UP FLOOD AREA

GROCER IS SHOT DOWN IN STORE BY GUNMEN

Shot by one of two gunmen who entered his store on a pretense of purchasing milk, Mike Spethneck, 40, a grocer of 1632 Colwell street, is reported in a critical condition in the Passavant Hospital. He was shot in the left side below the heart last night.

One of the pair asked for a quart of milk and when the grocer turned to reach for the bottle he was shot. There was no warning, the gun being drawn and the shot following so rapidly that Spethneck did not have an opportunity to escape injury, he told police.

Robbery was not the motive in the shooting, as the money in the till was not disturbed. Spethneck, questioned by sleuths, could not throw any light on the shooting. He said he knew of no enemies who wished him harm.

TO COST LESS THAN SAND AS FILL

The Department of Public Works today is preparing an ordinance authorizing the cutting down of Monument Hill and using the removed earth to fill streets in the North Side which are to be raised above flood level.

The ordinance was ordered yesterday on a motion by Harry A. Little, who convinced city engineers that earth removed from the hill would cost less than sand or slag to fill the streets to be raised.

COST $2 A YARD

Engineers recently estimated that 200,000 cubic yards of earth would have to be removed to bring the top of the hill to within 35 feet of its base, leaving an area on top about 400 by 450 feet. The cost was placed at $2 a yard.

Under a plan authorized by pending ordinances certain streets were to be raised, but others were to remain at present grades to avoid probable damage to property that was estimated to reach considerable proportions.

The City Planning Commission disapproved of leaving any of the streets below flood level and after discussing its recommendations, Council decided to raise all the streets in the flood zone.

As a result, President James F. Malone successfully moved that the Department of Public Works submit estimates of the cost of raising any buildings in the flood area where such an operation was necessary to conform with proposed changes in street grades.

ESTIMATES ASKED

In another motion by Malone, the law department was requested to get estimates of probable damages to property that might result from the proposed improvement to streets.

The streets to be raised are in the area bounded by Federal street, the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne and Chicago Railroad and the Ohio River.

As a possible accompanying project, Malone called for an estimated cost of the widening of Lacock and Reedsdale streets in the flood zone.

SNYDER AGAIN CHURCH HEAD

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The Rev. Dr. P. W. Snyder, of Pittsburgh, was re-elected yesterday as president of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches representing 16 denominations and 1,500,000 communicant members in the state.

The commission on international relations recommended entry of the United States into the world court, commended the Kellogg-Briand pact for the outlawry of war as "one of the greatest steps ever taken toward world peace," and urged ratification by the Senate, and protested against compulsory military training in schools and colleges.

Other officers elected were: Bishop M. T. Maze, first vice president; Bishop William M. Bell, second vice president; Rev. Dr. S. W. Herman, recording secretary, and Francis J. Hall, treasurer, all of Harrisburg. Among chairman of commissions elected was Rev. Thomas D. Edgar, Wilkinsburg, evangelism.

Court Frees Two of Counterfeit Charge

It required only a few minutes for a jury to acquit Frank Viggiani and Angelo Mollo, of Republic, tried before Federal Judge Nelson McVicar for the possession of counterfeit bank notes. Attorney Frank J. Zapalla represented the defendants. Four others, Dominic Bromco and Frank Gallo, of Brier Hill; John Martorell, of Washington, and Vincenzo Loise, of Ambridge, pleaded guilty last Saturday to possessing and passing counterfeit $20 and $50 reserve bank notes, which flooded this district recently.

Two Men Arrested For Hauling Still

Thomas Flot and Joseph Obsecwski were committed to jail, after prohibition agents seized an automobile containing a 50-gallon still in which they were riding at Eighteenth street and Spring way last midnight.

County Acts for Seizure of More Airport Land

Additional condemnation proceedings for the new city-county airport in Mifflin township were authorized today by the County Commissioners, bringing the total acreage affected to 100.

Owners against whom County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich was instructed to begin proceedings are Jacob Knox, William Jack, Frank H. Jack, Thomas Greer, Alice Smith and Elizabeth Watkins. Action to condemn three other parcels was instituted last week.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A SIMPLE STYLE FOR MATURE FIGURES

Printed and plain crepe are combined in this smart style. The uneven hemline is featured in the graceful dip at the sides. The panel breaks the severity of the front and forms slenderizing lines. The sleeve is a close-fitting model. A narrow belt at low waistline holds the fulness of the dress. Printed velvet combined with plain crepe is suggested for this design. Moire and satin or all satin would be equally effective.

County Questions Expert's $500 Bill

A bill of $500 presented by George W. Wood, Detroit handwriting expert, for services in the Sam Jaworski trial, was deemed "too high" by the County Commissioners today. They referred the bill to District Attorney S. H. Gardner for a report.

Wood testified as to a letter written by Sam Jaworski to a pal in Uruguay telling how he helped his brother, Paul, condemned slayer, and Jack Vasbinder shoot their way out of the county jail a year ago last August.

Gas Explosion Fatal To McKeesport Man

Burned about the body in a gas explosion in his home early yesterday, Andrews Padillo, 22, State street, Clairton, died in the McKeesport Hospital last night.

Turning on the gas in a stove upon arising yesterday morning, Padillo was unable to find a light. He left the room and returned a short time later and lighted a match, police say. The accumulated gas exploded and tore out the side of the house, burning Padillo.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

WILD IMPULSE

By L. LAMAR MATTHEWS.

MOLLY ELLIS was hungry. She had eaten nothing all day. Now it was dark and she was two miles from home—without a penny. She remembered thankfully that she had paid her room rent before she lost her position. She wondered if she would actually starve.

Molly had read of princely gentlemen who invited hungry girls to dine. She had never met any such gentlemen, but her destitute circumstances drove her to consider their possibility. She decided she would take the risk. But how did one pick up an affluent acquaintance—a nice safe one?

She walked slowly along, stopping to gaze in shop windows and trying to look inviting. A fat, red-faced person leered at her. An oily, oldish, little man sidled up beside her. Two flip young blades winked at her as they hurried past. A smelly, blear-eyed creature spoke to her. Molly shuddered and quickened her pace. She felt so frightened and humiliated that she failed to note the darkness of the street at this point.

"Hands up!" said a voice at her elbow.

Molly laughed. The idea of anybody robbing her struck her as being immensely funny. It was a hysterical laugh, and once started she couldn't stop it. Her laughter seemed to disconcert the bandit. The purse he had snatched from her hand dropped on the sidewalk.

At that moment a policeman appeared. A nearby door opened and a flood of light fell upon the would-be robber.

"He's only a kid," thought the girl, "and he's scared to death."

The policeman laid his hand upon the boy's shoulder.

"What's going on here?" he demanded.

A sudden pity for the youthful sinner seized the girl.

"There's nothing the matter," she lied, smiling at the officer. "My brother thought I had something that belonged to him, but he sees now that he was mistaken."

"Well keep your family rows at home hereafter," growled the policeman. "Move on."

"Gosh, you're a good sport!" the boy whispered.

They walked along together until they escaped the suspicious eye of the law.

"I guess you don't know what it means to be alone in a big city without a place to sleep," he said.

"I know what it is to be hungry," she answered. "I haven't had a bite to eat today."

"You are hungry!" the boy gasped. "I've got a dollar. Come on, I'll buy you something to eat."

"No. Wait," she said. "A dollar goes a long way if you cook the food at home."

"Cook it?" He stared at her in amazement.

"I have an electric plate in my room. You have money for groceries. We are both up against it. Let's pool our resources."

"Good! You do the buying," he answered, handing over his last dollar.

Eighty cents she invested in food—potatoes, bread, butter, a can of soup, a bit of fruit, sugar and tea. They rode out on the street car and arrived at Mrs. Hobb's rooming house where Molly lived.

It was while they were eating that Fred Brown told his story. He had been in the city several weeks looking for work. At last he had been promised a job as clerk in a store beginning Saturday. In the meantime his landlady had put him out of his room and kept his clothes in lieu of the rent he owed. The garments he wore were soiled and rumpled. He wouldn't be admitted to the sales force in his bedraggled condition. He was desperate. In a moment of madness he had attempted his first hold-up.

Molly remembered with shame that she had almost yielded to a wild impulse that same evening—just as dangerous as the one that had befuddled this boy's brain.

"There's a little room on the top floor that is vacant," she said aloud. "I'll see if Mrs. Hobbs will let you have it."

She went out and came back shortly with good news.

"Mrs. Hobbs says you can have the room. I told her you were going to work tomorrow and would be sure to pay her at the end of next week."

"But I can't go to work this way," Fred protested. "They'll kick me out even before I get inside the store."

Molly did not answer him. She was rummaging through her wardrobe. She brought forth a pair of pajamas and an old lounging robe.

"There's a bathroom at the end of the hall," she said. "Go in there and put these on. Put your suit outside the door. I'll clean and press that while you wash your clothes. Spread them in your room to dry and I'll iron your shirt when it is dry."

It was midnight before their tasks were finished. Cleaning fluid, brushing and pressing did wonders for Fred's suit. Clean linen, a bath, a shave and a home-made shoe shine did the rest.

All together young Brown presented the appearance of a well-groomed gentleman when he started off next morning to work. Crisp buttered toast and a cup of hot tea, served in Molly's best style, added to his courage and well-being.

That Saturday night he received three whole dollars for his day's labor. He carried his fortune to Molly.

"The way you manage we can eat a week on this money," he said.

"Dinner's ready," she answered. "We'll shop afterwards."

So they dined again—on potatoes with stewed apples for dessert.

All the next week Molly prepared meals for herself and Fred—making out that precious money and making it supply their food.

One night Fred rushed in with the news that a cashier was needed next door to his place of business and he thought maybe Molly could get that job. Molly did. And then their financial worries were over, for a while.

Whether they were lucky or just good managers is not revealed. At any rate the story ends happily.

To see them now, one would never imagine that either Fred or Molly Brown had ever wanted for any of the good things of life. Fred is one of the leading business men of his city and his wife is bountifully supplied with everything that love and money can buy.

"She certainly made me what I am today."

WOMAN ROUTS NEGRO ROBBER

A Negro robber was routed from the home of Mrs. John O'Mahoney, 2306 Penn avenue early today when Mrs. O'Mahoney awoke and chased him through a second story window.

The intruder had gained entrance through a rear door on the first floor. Police from the Penn Avenue station could find no trace of the intruder.

PHILA. STARTS DRIVE ON GUNMEN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—District Attorney John Monaghan, directing the special grand jury investigation of bootlegging and police corruption, and Mayor Harry A. Mackey have entered into a pact to drive all gunmen out of Philadelphia.

The Mayor told Monaghan yesterday he would utilize every policeman in Philadelphia in the work, and Monaghan said his entire force of county detectives would exert all its efforts in the same direction.

The agreement was made when Monaghan paid his first visit to the Mayor's office since the opening, last August, of the grand jury investigation which has resulted in the mayor's appointee, Harry C. Davis, resigning from directorship of the Department of Public Safety and the ousting or imprisoning of numerous policemen and police officials.

The District Attorney said that the immediate reason impelling him to call on the Mayor for aid in ridding the city of gunmen was the fact that he had received information that three gunmen had been imported into this city from Chicago.

Monaghan yesterday brought Charles F. Toomey, who lost to gamblers $34,000 which he embezzled from a trust company, before the grand jury in connection with the investigation of police-protected gambling.

Toomey now is serving a sentence of 10 to 30 years, imposed in October, 1920.

BLUFFITES ALMOST INTACT IN 1929

DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY'S great forward strides in football this year are likely to be continued next season, not only because the coaching system brought here by Elmer Layden in 1927 is of the kind that works out gradually and may be depended upon for a steady improvement in conditions, but for the additional reason that the former Notre Dame star will have a better basis upon which to begin operations than he had in either of his first two local campaigns.

Joe Guerrier

For when the time for starting 1929 gridiron activities rolls around, Coach Layden will hold the advantage of having his fine regular team of this year almost intact.

THE Dukes will suffer a great deal less by graduation than either of the two other college elevens representing Father Pitt. The Panthers will lose three stars in Fox, Getto and Guarino, and the Skibos will have to part with Harpster, Mielziner, Sweet, Moorhead, Lovewell, Letzelter, Stauffer, Kousman, Young and others, but only one of the Bluff team's regulars of this year will be missing.

Joe Guerrier, crack end, is the lone Duke regular who will graduate before the arrival of another football season. The Letonia (O.) boy is now in his fourth year at the Bluff school and will play his final college game again. Waynesburg tomorrow morning. He has been of great value to the Layden crew this season, his most notable feat being the catching of a forward pass for the touchdown that beat W. & J. in the last minute of play.

WHILE the Panthers are playing their thirty-first annual game with Penn State at the Stadium tomorrow afternoon to wind up the Pittsburgh intercollegiate football season, a number in which the dope indicates a seventh straight victory for Pitt over the Blue and White, several other contests of interest will be staged in various parts of the Eastern pigskin division.

W. & J., which has not won a game since the second event of its season against Waynesburg, will meet West Virginia in Morgantown; New York University will oppose the Oregon Aggies in New York; Penn and Cornell will clash in Philadelphia, and Brown will hook up with Colgate in Providence.

Clarence Overend

LOOKING over his books for the season that was concluded by Carnegie Tech last Saturday, Graduate Manager Clarence Overend finds that the Tartans played to a total attendance of close to 150,000 in their eight games. In round numbers the Plaid patronage was 148,500, divided as follows: Westminster at Youngstown, 3,500; Ashland here, 5,000; Thiel here, 5,000; W. & J. here, 18,000; Pitt here, 45,000; Georgetown at Albany, 8,000; Notre Dame at South Bend, 34,000; New York University here, 30,000.

JACK ADAMS, manager of the Detroit hockey club in the National Professional League, conceived the idea of changing the color of the puck used in his league games from black to red, but announces that he has abandoned the idea after a tryout. The plan failed to work out satisfactorily in practice.

Adams believed that a red puck could be followed more easily by hockey patrons than a black one. A search through the rule book failed to reveal any provision as to the color of the puck that must be used, and as the home club supplies the disc for each game Adams planned to use a red one in the league contests at Detroit.

HOWEVER, when a red puck was tried out in two practice sessions by the Cougars it was not found satisfactory. At one time Adams had two pucks going on the ice, one red and other black, and onlookers said they could follow the black rubber more easily.

Dolly Dolson, the Detroit team's goalkeeper, reported that he found the red puck much more difficult to keep his eyes upon than the black one after a series of shots had been made at his net.

THESE tests puzzled Adams, but he was not ready to give up until he had tried both pucks for the third time while the Detroit Olympics, of the Canadian Pro League, were on the ice, wearing black and white uniforms. Again the black disc stood out, whereupon Adams abandoned his scheme. Adams says he got the idea of a red puck from outdoor advertisers, who told him they had found that red letters, when printed on a white background, stood out better than letters of any other color. Black letters, they said, are seldom used outdoors on white backgrounds without the use of other coloring to make them stand out. Yet Adams discovered that a red puck on white ice cannot be seen as easily as a black one.

Jimmy Reid

WHILE Bill Cox, Penn State harrier, failed to equal the record established by John Paul Jones in 1910, 1911 and 1912, when the Cornell star won the annual cross-country run of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. three times in a row, he still holds the distinction of having made the best time ever hung up for the six-mile event over the Van Cortlandt Park course.

Jimmy Reid, of Harvard, who won the big hill-and-dale grind this year after Cox had taken it twice in a row, was six seconds behind the record of 30 minutes and six second, established by Cox. And the latter also has the satisfaction of knowing that he helped Penn State win the team championship again, this third straight victory making the Blue and White the only college except Cornell that ever won the cross-country championship more than twice in succession. Cornell captured it four times straight.

WINTER horse racing will open tomorrow at two tracks—Jefferson Park in New Orleans and the Tijuana course, located in Mexico, across the southern border of California. The Thanksgiving Day Handicap, with $5,000 added, will be the stake feature of the first day at Jefferson Park. This meeting will continue until December 21. Tijuana will run for 100 days or more, the feature being the Cofforth Handicap on March 17, valued at $130,000, the richest stake

HUBMEN MOVE TO RUNNER-UP POSITION

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The Boston Bruins became runners-up in the American division of the National Hockey League here last night by shutting out Benny Leonard's Pittsburgh Pirates, 1 to 0. The winning tally was made early in the final period by Harry Oliver, the Bruins' right wing, who fought his way through a scrimmage in front of the Pirates' cage, tore the puck loose from the pack and pushed it past Miller.

The play was "even stephen" for the first two periods, both teams playing airtight hockey and seldom permitting the other to get set for any kind of a difficult shot at their goalie. Once the Bruins gained the lead they forced matters by keeping the puck inside the Pirates' defense most of the time.

RALLY HALTED

During the final minutes Darragh and Milks tried vainly to crash through Hitchman and Shore, but the Boston pair never let them get set on a decent angle. The Pirates were in the midst of a stirring rally in front of Thompson when the final bell drove the players from the ice.

Frederickson broke his stick on the first face-off with Milks and the puck went into Boston territory, the Pittsburgh center taking a long shot for the cage. Hitchman went down for Boston, passed to Galbraith but Miller stopped. Oliver skated all over center ice, finally sneaking through but his try was stopped. The Bruins' forward line went down but broke against the Pirates' defense.

McCaffrey gained the puck when Frederickson lost his footing and he slid smoothly through the Bruins' defense pair, but his weak try was spoiled by Thompson. The Pirates pulled off a lot of neat passing in center ice, but Oliver stole in and grabbed the puck for a long shot which failed. Both teams put in fresh forwards. Pettinger broke up a wild scramble in center ice and wasted his energy sending a wild, high shot.

MILKS MISSES PASS

There was much skating about between the blue lines while the reserves were in action. Darragh got the puck and stole away from the crowd at the Pirates' cage. He and Milks went down and broke through

RELIANCE LIFE GETS COUNTY BERTH

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The roster of the Allegheny County League, the strongest professional circuit ever organized in this section, was completed at a meeting held last night when Reliance Life was granted the sixth franchise in the circuit. The other five members are Duquesne Lafayettes, Duquesne Light, Goldensons, Enoch Rauhs and Miele-Franchini.

The Reliance entry, playing its home games in Crafton, will present a lineup including such well-known stars as Ski Twyman and Chick Hood, who played in the two previous county loops.

The league season will open on December 10 with the Goldensons at Duquesne Lafayettes and Reliance Life at Miele-Franchini at Columbus Temple.

A seventh team has been added to the reorganized P. & O. basketball League, it was announced last night. The Merry Cadets, sponsored and financed by Merry Goldenson, with a superb roster and a fine home court, have been given one of the two remaining franchises. They will play all home games on one of the finest floors in Western Pennsylvania, the K. of C. Hall in Braddock. Two years ago the cadets made an excellent showing in the second half of the same league, but last year did not participate in the P. & O., because they did not have a home hall.

The Philadelphia Company League will open its basketball season tonight at Fifth Avenue High School with four teams in action. In the first contest at 8 o'clock Equitable Gas meets Pittsburgh Railways, in the second at 9 o'clock Duquesne Light meets Philadelphia Company. The two games have stirred up considerable interest among the employes of the Philadelphia Company and a large turnout is expected to attend the inaugural.

The South Side Falcons, including in their lineup Eddie Kubick and Eddie Jesko, former County League stars, will invade the home court of the Duquesne Sailacts tonight for a West Penn League game. Zion Lutherans will meet the S. E. Lutherans in the preliminary contest. Max Hannum will referee the big attraction.

The Westinghouse Junior Cadets, who scored an impressive 21-to-11 victory over Greenfield Association, want games at home and abroad. Call Franklin 2676 and ask for Bud.

With Joe Lopchick in the lineup the Cleveland Rosenblums should have no trouble winning the American Professional League title this winter. Lopchick as a member of the New York Celtics was the outstanding center in professional basketball circles. The Celtics have disbanded, Nat Holman joining Hakoah, while Davey Banks has returned to Philadelphia.

The Ritz Club, one of the best Negro teams operating in first-class

BOXING PRICES HERE TO BE SLASHED

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

BOXING prices are to be cut in Pittsburgh beginning with the first of the new year in an effort to stimulate interest in the sport following the poor attendance of the last two shows, which featured Young Rudy against Eddie (Kid) Wagner and Johnny Datto against Andy Martin. Each show lost a small sum instead of netting a profit for the Motor Square Club.

There will be only two shows between now and New Year's Day at Motor Square, aside, of course, from the benefit show for the orphans, scheduled for December 17, in the main bout of which Jack Zivic likely will box his old rival, Cuddy DeMarco, over the three-round route. Benny Leonard, retired lightweight champion, who now is the owner of the Pittsburgh Hockey Club, originally was slated to spar with DeMarco, but has decided he had better stick to his decision not to don the gloves again, even in the name of sweet charity. He will do his bit in another capacity.

TO REVIVE INTEREST

In announcing plans for the slash in prices, John Hernon, manager of the Garden, said today that he believed the experiment might place a finger on the sore spot in the sport hereabouts. Interest has lagged in boxing in the city for a couple of seasons. Conditions have been similar in some other big arenas and have been improved by lowered seat prices, and this includes Madison Square Garden, New York, of which Tex Rickard is manager.

Hernon has in mind a scale of 75 cents for general admission and $1 and $2 for reserved seats, instead of the present scale of $1, $2 and $3.

There will be no boxing in the Garden next Monday night, the building being taken over for the week by the Knights of Malta circus, and it is likely that Ike McFowler, Negro heavyweight, of Johnstown, who has been mopping up all opposition, will be seen in the main bout the following Monday night, December 10. The benefit show follows the next Monday and then will come the Christmas afternoon date, when Andy Martin likely will be brought back to face the best obtainable opponent, to be selected from among Pete Nebo, Davey Abad, Bushy Graham and Mike Ingoglia. Abad won a decision over Nebo in a sensational bout in Philadelphia Monday night.

RECALLING A DARING PLAY

The fact that Pitt and Penn State clash in their annual Thanksgiving Day battle at the Stadium tomorrow recalls the play in which Bob Higgins, now a member of the Penn State coaching staff, started the

PANTHERS IN LAST DRILL

By JESS CARVER.

HUGO BEZDEK, the man with a contract as long as a giraffe's neck, is in town again with another Penn State football team. He and his Lions will face the Pitt Panthers in the city's annual Thanksgiving Day gridiron classic at the stadium tomorrow afternoon.

The Staters are here, seemingly with less chance than they have sported in recent years of beating the Panthers. State has been handicapped by injuries from the very start of the training season. Capt. Greenshields was stricken by pneumonia, missed training camp and has not been able to get into stride since. The lions lost heavily through graduation last year, especially in the backfield. French has come along as the best ball toting bet, but he lacks the experience of a Roepke or a Lungren.

State's season has been close to disastrous. Bucknell, Lafayette, Notre Dame and Pennsylvania have scored victories over the Lions. Penn gave State its worst setback, winning 14-0. The Lions went bad into Philadelphia a week later to play Notre Dame and lost, 9 to 0, playing before a disappointing crowd of less than 25,000.

MAY BE BEST OF ALL

But despite these indications of weakness, tomorrow's game may be a better one than any Pitt-State tussles of recent years. The Lions are here without a team of stars, but with a team of fighting, determined football players. Pitt will be favored to win, and rightly so, but it seems entirely wrong to expect them to daub the Center Countians with any great score.

Three State stars will make their final collegiate gridiron appearances here. Allie Wolf, the all-around star Steve Hamas, who is acting captain, and George Delp, dependable right end, are the seniors on the squad. Hamas is playing fullback and playing the job well. He and French have been the most consistent ground gainers of the season.

The advance sale for this game has been encouraging, according to W. Don Harrison, Pitt's director of athletics. State has always been a drawing card here—for there are more Penn State alumni in this section possibly than those of any other school. There has been color to Lion elevens, ever since that memorial 1919 game, when Hess and Bob Higgins, now the assistant coach, combined to beat Pop Warner's team almost before the customers were well settled in their seats.

Pitt put in its final lengthy drill in preparation for the game yesterday and will hold the final workout of the year this afternoon. A brisk signal drill and setting up exercises will feature the session.

Just a second—Bananas DiMeolo, Franklyn Monaca Hood and Snake Crissinger will put on their final

HEIDELBERG, PITTSBURGH TO CLASH

By TOM BIRKS.

With Pittsburgh scheduled to clash with Heidelberg, at the Homewood Playgrounds, Pittsburgh Rovers drawn to meet Westinghouse at Chambers Field, and the Swissvale Soccer Club booked to travel to Dunlevy, all soccer games are scheduled in the West Penn cup tomorrow.

This will be the first real soccer day of the season, for while the league games provide the fans with plenty of interesting games, it is the cup ties that provide thrills.

The big game of the season will find Pittsburgh Soccer club clashing with Heidelberg, former national amateur champions, which will be defending its Western Pennsylvania title in this game. East End fans looking for a thrill on Turkey Day should take in the action that is promised. The Green and Gold of Heidelberg, nationally known, will be up against its stiffest test of the season. Pittsburgh, with the wonderful Bobby Boyle, America's premier goalkeeper, as its last line of defense, will show the fans just how good the national cracks can expect to be this season. Fagan and Villani, the boys who made such a wonderful showing at Cleveland last year, Bertie Jones, Pittsburgh's only soccer player ever to appear on America's Olympic soccer team, opposed to Angie Behling, Charlie Powell, Cusic, Jimmie Moreman, Davy Herron and Miller.

It will be the first time since the national amateur final game was played at the Westinghouse High School stadium two years ago, that a real cup fight has been staged in the East End, and when Bill O'Donnell and Boyle toss for selecting goals, a greater cup tie crowd since the big national day is expected to be on hand.

Dunlevy is going to have a tough week. Tomorrow will find the Grandy team opposed to Swissvale, in the West Penn, and on Saturday Akron Goodyears will meet Dunlevy in the national cup. Well, Turkey Day's game should be a good workout for the bigger affair on Saturday.

Grandy states the game is going to be played at Charleroi Park Saturday, and that soccerites taking in the contest can reach the field by good automobile roads through Monongahela, Charleroi street car, or the train that leaves Union Depot around 1 p. m.

RELATIONS SEVERED

MONTGOMERY, W. Va., Nov. 28.—At a special meeting of the athletic council of New River State College held here yesterday, it was decided to temporarily sever athletic relations with West Liberty and Concord College until statements made in a Wheeling paper of recent date, and quoted as coming from the coaches of these institutions are corrected.

CUBS TO BRING CVENGROS BACK FROM MINORS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

LITTLE Mike Cvengros, who took his departure from Pittsburgh shortly after Babe Ruth lost one of Mike's offerings in a game of the 1927 World Series, is coming back to the big show. The Chicago Cubs have drafted the lefthander following a very successful season enjoyed by Cvengros with the Wichita Falls club of the Texas League.

If our care to take the word of certain Pirates of note, Coal-miner Mike is a big-league pitcher. Appreciative athletes, they remember, for instance, that the Austrian boy played a big part in the winning of the 1926 flag through his relief work, not to mention his timely hitting.

REAL RELIEF PLAYER

On a certain hot afternoon in Philadelphia, the Buccos were being crowded by the Quakers in a double bill. In the late innings of the opener, Mike was called to the mound. A crisis was on tap, but Mike quelled the uprising and the Buccos won the game. About two hours later, the Phillies had a flock of runners on the paths and seemed ready to put over the knockout wallop when Cvengros returned for an encore. He stopped the shelling again, the Pirates winning two games that had a distinctive bearing on the flag.

The Yankees were treating the Buccos like aliens when the quiet southpaw was asked to go to the mound. Pitching to Babe Ruth was no new experience for the modest miner; in fact there were times when Cvengros made Ruth appear to be an ordinary batter.

To disgress for a moment, Mike, as a member of the White Sox staff, worked a 15-inning classic against the Yankees. On three occasions the dexterous lefthander fanned the Bambino. In the fifteenth inning Ruth came up and slammed the rocket over the ramparts of Mr. Comiskey's South Side stadium. The wallop won the game.

BABE HITS WHEN HE HITS

But Ruth, according to Mike and other twirlers, is liable to hit a homer on the same sort of a pitch that will strike him out on some occasions. So Mike realized his predicament as he duelled with Babe in the series. Eventually Ruth pulled a curve ball high and dry into the rightfield seats; of course the smash helped to bring about a Pirate defeat—and everybody knows that there was nothing but reverses for the Freebooters in that series.

So Mike was not long in hitting the trail for Texas, he being a part of the deal that brought Lefthander Fred Fussell to the Pirates.

Besides being a clever twirler, Cvengros is a real hitter in the ninth position. He also bats left-handed and he has a pretty swing that produces many baseHits in the course of a season. Michael will be in a select company of pitchers in Chicago and his many friends are hoping he will be able to win consistently. He is a player who respects all training rules, by the way.

GEORGIA TECH LIKELY BEARS' OPPONENT

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Georgia Tech, undefeated and untied in a strenuous season, would be "pleased to consider" an invitation to meet California in Rose Bowl at Pasadena on New Year's Day.

Prof. A. H. Armstrong, Tech's business manager, advised yesterday that Tech would be formally invited to meet the Pacific Coast eleven, said he had received no advices to that effect, although it was probable that some communication was even then in the mails.

No other officials at Tech would indicate what the athletic council at Tech would do about the invitation pending further advices, which were expected momentarily.

In the event Tech is selected to oppose California, it will mark the third time within four years that a southern team has been chosen to meet a western aggregation in the annual Tournament of Roses classic.

Alabama's Crimson Tide went West in 1925 against Washington and won, 20 to 19.

DECIDE ON FOE TODAY

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 27—(INS.)—Whether or not the Golden Bears of California will accept an invitation to play Georgia Tech, at Pasadena, on New Year's Day will be decided here this afternoon at a meeting of the student executive committee.

Coach Price, it is understood, is willing to have the Bears meet the Georgia team, but he believs this is something for the players themselves to decide. Their decision will require ratification by the student body and permission of the university administration.

Georgia Tech, has been initiated by Lee Henry, head of the Rose tournament football committee, is the only team to be invited to play a western team.

STATE ARRIVES

razzberry act of the year. They should stage this between halves of the ball game tomorrow with some sort of an amplifying arrangement. It's worth a $7.70 top.

DUKES READY

The annual State Alumni Smoker, and one well worth attending, will be held in Kaufmann's Auditorium beginning at 8:30 this evening. This has been Pittsburgh's leading collegiate smoker since Hector was a mere pup.

The Dukes wish it to be known that they are ready for Waynesburg. The Yellow Jackets will be here for a game with the Laydenmen tomorrow morning. The Jackets can't get very far by winning, but there are two things they can do. First—They can keep the Dukes from entering a tie with Westminster for the Conference championship, and can keep their record of never having lost a footbal game to the Dukes clear.

Coaches Layden and Reagan believe they have their hopefuls in good shape for the invasion of the Waynesburgers. The team came out of the Bethany contest on Saturday in fair trim—though there were the usual number of bruised muscles and strains. None were serious, however.

Frank Wolf, the coach of the Jackets, hasn't had a great deal of success with his squad. He was faced with the task of developing a new line and installing a new system at a school where football was at low ebb. I think he has accomplished a lot at that. He tied both Bethany and Grove City and gave Westminster and Geneva hard ball games.

They tell me that the Dukes didn't look any too hot against Bethany. Waynesburg figures to be a stronger team than the Bisons at the present time.

The kickoff is slated for 10:00 a. m.

REAL CLASSIC

Andy Kerr's battered Presidents will put the finishing touches on their preparations for the annual battle with the West Virginia Mountaineers with a light drill this afternoon. Then they'll depart for Morgantown, where they'll attempt to retrieve some glory by upsetting the West Virginians tomorrow.

This game is one of the district's annual classics. West Virginia came back last year to hold Washington and Jefferson to a tie. With the odds as strongly against them as they are against W. & J. this year.

West Virginia has been beaten twice this fall—the Presidents four. But that doesn't mean a thing. There are worse short end bets than the Prexys tomorrow—because every short end eleven doesn't have Andy Kerr for a coach.

Westminster Elects Boone Grid Captain

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 28.—Russell (Chappie) Boone, star center on the Westminster grid team for the last two years, has been elected captain for the 1929 season by the 14 letter men of the school.

Boone, a sophomore, starred at Union High, Turtle Creek, during his high school days and won all-scholastic recognition while playing for Foxie Miller. Boone has been an outstanding center on both offense and defense for two seasons.

Cornell Captain Out of Penn Game

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—(INS.)—According to the Cornell coaches here with the team for tomorrow's clash with Penn, Capt. Dud Schoales is not in condition to face the Red and Blue. Coach Young, of Penn, before taking his charges to the Jersey shore for a brief rest, said he looked for a close battle despite Cornell's poor showing to date.

Mitchman and Shore. The Pirates seemed certain of the score but Milks spoiled the chance by missing Darragh's easy pass. Drury shot down the side wall and Thompson made an exceptional stop of his hard shot as the period ended.

Cotton was sent to the box for the second time for tripping Frederickson immediately after the face-off in the second period. Weiland, after flashing on defense, took the puck for a trip through the Pirates defense territory, but Miller saved his shot. Milks and Darragh went down, the former passing square in front of the bruins' cage as Darfront of the Bruins' cage as Darragh came in.

MacKAY INJURED

Shore ploughed down on the Pirates' cage but his shot was a bit too far to the right. Play was stopped to carry MacKay off the ice. He was injured when Gainor fell on his leg. Drury returned to the fray and made a shot at Thompson. Shore and Frederickson smashed through the Pirates' defense pair but Eddie flubbed a backpass. Hitchman spoiled the passing attack of Darragh and Milks.

The Bruins staged an excited jam about Miller's cage but the Pirates' goalie made some rare saves. Drury was banished for holding and the Bruins started a scoring drive. Green fought for the puck in front of Miller but the latter turned his short pass aside, Hitchman went down alone and tried to slide the puck through Miller. Then Weiland tried the same stunt only to lose the puck at the blue line at the bell. The lineup:

BRUINS—1.		PIRATES—0.
Thompson	G.	Miller
Hitchman	L. D.	Holway
Shore	R. D.	McCaffrey
Frederickson	C.	Milks
Galbraith	L. W.	Cotton
Oliver	R. W.	Darragh

Boston spares—Pettinger, Greene, Cafferi, Rodden, Winkler, Capper, Weiland, Klein, Deeney.

Pittsburgh spares — Smith, McCurry, MacKay, Drury, White, MacKinnon.

Referee—Mallinson and Ritchie.

First period—No score. Penalty—Cotton, holding.

Second period—No score. Penalties—Shore 2, checking and tripping; Cotton, tripping; Hitchman, checking; McCurry, interference; MacKinnon, charging; Drury, holding; Capper, charking.

Third period—Oliver 4:00. Penalties—Milks, tripping; Hitchman, checking; Smith, tripping.

YANKS WIN, 1-0.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The New York Americans kept their record clear of defeat and climbed to the top of the international division of the National Hockey League last night by taking a 1-to-0 decision from the Ottawa Senators. Ottawa also was undefeated up to this time. The teams had played a tie in their first meeting of the season.

CARLARIS SOLD FOR $100,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(INS.)—Carlaris, winner of the rich Coffroth handicap several season ago, and once the pride of the western turf, today had passed out of the hands of W. T. (Fatty) Anderson for $100,000 in one of the biggest racing sales in many years. B. B. Jones, owner of the Audley Farm, was the purchaser, and will use the Phalaris colt for stud duty.

After his spectacular victory in the Coffroth, Anderson was offered $250,000 for Carlaris, but this offer was refused. Anderson figured the colt would win classics during the season, which would bring his earnings above this offer, but Carlaris did not keep to his Tia Juana form and disappointed in his races in the East.

in the turf world. Racing at Oriental Park, Havana, will begin on December 15 for a run of 90 days.

At Jefferson Park the rule limiting fields to 12 horses, with six others "also eligible," will be enforced during the Jefferson Park meeting. In New Orleans this winter all race betting must be done at the track, as poolrooms and gambling houses in the city have been closed by order of the governor of Louisiana.

Charles A. Comiskey

DESPITE the fact that no announcement on the subject has yet come from President Charles A. Comiskey, who said he would not make known his intentions until the minor league meeting in Toronto next week or the American League meeting the following week in Chicago, it has leaked out that Russell (Lens) Blackburne has been reappointed manager of the White Sox in 1929. The discovery was made in an unusual manner. Comiskey ordered some new letterheads for next year, and some one in his business office unthinkingly displayed them to callers. Among the names of the other club officials on the new stationery appears the following: "Russell Blackburne, manager."

THEY are handing the palm for football sportsmanship to Lou Little, former Penn star, now coach of the Georgetown University eleven. Georgetown is the only eleven that has defeated New York University this season, having downed the Violet by a score of 7 to 2.

Most coaches would make the most of such a chance to point out the superiority of their teams and to claim regional championships and all that sort of thing, but Little proved an exception. In a public statement he pronounced N. Y. U. the strongest team in the country and entitled to the championship. "They are much better than our boys," said Lou, adding that the Violet deserved to win the game in which it was defeated by Georgetown.

NOT all of the McKechnies are being pushed into the background after making good records, as showing how merit may sometimes go unrewarded.

Young Billy McKechnie, son of the former Cardinal manager who was transferred to the Rochester International League club following a National League pennant victory, has been elected president of the Sophomore A class of Wilkinsburg High School.

SOLACE DRAWS ORLEANS POST

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Weights for the Thanksgiving Day handicap at Jefferson Park, announced last night by Joseph McLennan, racing secretary, gave top position to Solace, Seagram stable's 3-year-old colt, which drew post of honor with 118 pounds.

Second was ranked M. J. Cremen's 4-year-old Saxon, which raced here last winter for the Greentree stable, with 116 pounds, and third Reichert Brothers' My Dandy and the Seagram stable's Rolls Royce with 115 each.

Penn Backfield Coach to Resign

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—(INS.)—DeBenneville (Bert) Bell, backfield coach of the University of Pennsylvania football eleven, will resign at the end of the season, according to numerous reports today. Bell refused to discuss the reports "at this time." Penn officials were equally reticent.

Bell is said to be dissatisfied with coaching conditions at Penn and is considering another coaching position.

BURNS BATTLES 'CHESNEYTOWN TOMORROW

By TOM BIRKS.

THANKSGIVING DAY'S independent gridiron card is going to be one of the flashiest ever presented to the fans, for with McChesneytown meeting Burns at Parnassus High School field, McKeesport Olympics meeting the East Pittsburgh Firemen at the Quarry Stadium, Eight Ward Traders clashing with the Valley Tigers at Leslie Park, Lawrenceville and the Pleasant Valley Tigers bringing the Washington Leopards to Wilson Park, local followers will have plenty to enthuse over for their holiday sport.

Up at Oakmont the Patrizio gridders will stage their third meeting with their local rivals from Verona, and from the looks of things it is going to be a real fight. One game will be played in the morning, that being the Eighth Ward Traders-Valley Tigers tilt at Leslie Field, in Lawrence Park. This game carries with it the championship of the Strip and Bloomfield, and it is expected that both sections will be deserted tomorrow morning.

LIKELY TO EVEN UP

Burns and McChesneytown will resume their last year's session at Parnassus High School field, and seeing that Burns copped the last tilt, it is expected that the Kennedy machine will even matters up with practically all last year's team available. Burns has changed with the passing of time, and Billy Doll, who won last year's battle, is now far away.

McChesneytown is a favorite with the Allegheny River fans, and last season drew the greatest crowd that ever watched an independent battle in that neck of the woods. Of course, the championship is not at stake, but that does not worry the fan who wants to see a real football game.

At East Pittsburgh, a grudge battle will be fought when the Firemen meet the Olympics. There is a big following to both clubs, and Newlin will be out to set down Zellac. The opposing lines are about equal. So, with everything set, the Valley championship will be worth seeing.

At Pleasant Valley, Johnny Dunsky is hoping the Smilers are good enough to stop this Washington Leopard outfit. The Smilers will show at Wilson Park for the first time this season, and seeing there will be no competition on the North Side, there is reason to feel a big crowd will be on hand.

In the only game of the morning, there is much rivalry between the Traders of Bloomfield and the Valley Tigers, representing Lawrenceville. The Tigers played a 0-0 tie with the Mohawks, so the championship of the Strip goes with the battle. This game will be staged at 10:30 o'clock. A banner crowd should be on hand.

Worters Deal May Be Closed Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—There were reports in New York hockey circles today that Roy Worters, great goalie of the Pittsburgh Pirates, would be a member of the New York Americans before nightfall.

Worters, who has been under suspension since the opening of the National Hockey League season because he failed to come to an agreement with the Pirates on salary terms, has been persistently sought by the Americans. Benny Leonard, new owner of the Pirates, has been in conference with officials of the American club for the last few days. It was understood that Leonard would not trade unless he could get Joe Miller, goalie, Norman Himes, substitute center of the Americans, and approximately $15,000 in cash. Leonard was reported to have turned down one offer made by the Americans which would have brought Worters to New York for Miller and $20,000.

(First news of the deal for the transfer of Worters to the New York Americans appeared in yesterday's late editions of the Pittsburg Sun-Telegraph.)

MAROONS GET TROTTIER

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 29.—(AP.)—Dave Trottier, one of Canada's greatest amateur hockey players, has signed with the Montreal Maroons of the National Professional Hockey League. He will leave tomorrow night with the team for Detroit where he is to play his first professional hockey against the Detroit Cougars.

Rights to Trottier were secured by the Maroons by payment of approximately $15,000 to the Toronto Maple Leafs who claimed his services, should he turn pro.

Trottier's salary was not announced, but it is known he turned down an offer made by Toronto, of $5,000 a season on a three-year contract and a $5,000 bonus for signing.

HAWKS RELEASE KEATS

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Duke Keats, Blackhawk wingman obtained from the Detroit Cougars last season, has been sold to the Tulsa club of the American Association at the waiver price of $5,000.

Keats played brilliant hockey in the early part of last year, but has failed to round into form this season. His release makes room for another player on the Hawks' roster, as Manager Herbert Gardiner plans to carry 12 men throughout the season.

Knockouts Feature Bouts at Elks' Club

One real and two technical knockouts marked the amateur boxing bouts under the auspices of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. at the Elk's Club, last night.

Billy Casey stopped George Sains, in three rounds and George Bretch, disposed of Carl Montabano, when his seconds declined to let him box an extra round after the judges disagreed.

In other bouts, Johnny Warner defeated Pete D'Alexandro, Bob Fratterola knocked out Dick Griffin in three rounds and Ted Murphy, defeated John Montabano.

PRICES CUT

Lions to victory the last time they won over the Panthers, back in 1919, at Forbes Field. He caught a forward pass from behind his goal line early in the first quarter and sprinted on a muddy gridiron 75 yards to a touchdown. The final score was 20-0. The next two years saw the rivals play scoreless ties, and the Lions have been comparatively easy ever since, and on their record this season, should prove the same again tomorrow. Last year, the score was 20-0.

At the time of the Higgins play, it caused considerable comment. Nowadays it is a common thing for a back to cross up the enemy by passing instead of kicking from deep in his own territory. Howard Harpster, the Carnegie Tech All-America quarterback, passed from behind his goal several times during the past season. The play still is considered daring, but not as revolutionary as nine years ago.

TOUGH ON LASSMAN

If the reported partial paralysis of Al Lassman, the star tackle and captain of the New York University Violets, as a result of the injuries he received in the game with Carnegie Tech at Forbes Field last Saturday, should prove more than temporary it will be a tragedy of the sport world, for few athletes have been faced by the bright future of this young giant. Not only is he a great football player, but he also has starred as an intercollegiate boxer and plans have been laid for a professional career in the ring for him. Weighing 210 pounds, standing 6 feet 4 inches tall and packing a terrific punch, he has been regarded as a real prospect among the contenders for the vacant heavyweight championship. He won the intercollegiate heavyweight boxing championship year before last, but was prevented by a broken leg, suffered in the Colgate game, from defending his laurels last year. He is only 21 years old. He was born in Cambridge, Mass., and received his early football training at Cushing Academy, Ashburnham, Mass. He still is confined in Mercy Hospital here.

PENN LOSES STARS

Penn loses three of its famous four backfield magicians with the playing of the traditional game with Cornell at Franklin Field tomorrow. Scull, Shober and Murphy will be graduated next June, leaving only Opekun as a nucleus for a new quartet of ball-carriers next year. The magicians have done their stuff this year, and, but for a 6-0 upset by the most peculiar Navy eleven, would have gone through the season undefeated. Their ability to conceal the ball earned for them the title of magicians. Eight members of the varsity squad will accompany Scull, Murphy and Shober in departing for new fields.

Cornell enters the game with a record of defeats by Princeton and Dartmouth and ties with St. Bonaventure and Columbia, but, somehow, the Big Red always manages to rise to the occasion for this battle and another great stand is expected.

Glimpses of Whitney, Jones, Harrison, U.S. Types

By B. C. FORBES

BIG names and big fortunes have been flashed before us within the last week. The will of Payne Whitney reveals that he left an estate of $175,000,000. Thomas Fortune Ryan dies at 77, leaving probably a still larger fortune. The chairman of the parent Standard Oil Company, George H. Jones, is dead of overwork, at 51. George L. Harrison, deputy governor, is appointed governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, succeeding the late Governor Strong, at 41.

Each of these four represents a completely different type, yet each type essentially American.

PAYNE WHITNEY was a second-generation man; he inherited the great bulk of his fortune. Although he devoted relatively little time to business, he greatly increased his wealth through judicious investments. He was a citizen of high order, extraordinarily generous, public-spirited, cultured, genial, much loved by his many friends, but little known to the public.

THOMAS FORTUNE RYAN incarnated the old school of doughty stalwarts who aggressively developed America's resources, during the closing quarter of last century and the first decade of this century. Among his contemporaries of big business and high finance were the original J. P. Morgan, John D. Rockefeller, Andrew Carnegie, James J. Hill, Jacob H. Schiff, Henry H. Rogers, Judge Gary, John W. Gates, Gov. Fowler, August Belmont, George F. Baker, James Stillman, William C. Whitney and, latterly, James B. Duke, Daniel G. Reid and E. H. Harriman.

Ryan's methods belonged to the nineteenth century. He played the game under the catch-as-catch-can rules then commonly in vogue. I once asked John D. Rockefeller if it were true that Standard Oil accepted railway rebates. "True!" he exclaimed. "Why, I remember that when it came out in court once that a little whipper-snapper of a fellow was getting a larger rebate from a certain railroad than we were getting, we were all perfectly humiliated."

GEORGE H. JONES was of a totally different type. Like Ryan, he began very poor. But he devoted his life to the one company employing him, Standard Oil of New Jersey. He toiled night and day, knowing nothing of play. His associates and friends who held him in the very highest regard tried to induce him to slacken his pace. But in vain. And, like Harriman, he died of overwork.

GOV. HARRISON is a fine example of the new school. A college graduate with legal training and a very creditable war record, he became identified with the Federal Reserve system at the start, developed unusual aptitude, became the right-hand man of Governor Strong not only in legal matters but in developing the network of international relationships now existing between this country and the principal governmental banks of Europe. It was the part Harrison played in developing these far-reaching international relationships that influenced the directors to place him at what is virtually the head of the Federal Reserve Bank system of the country. He is only 41.

THERE you have a thumb-nail sketch of different American types.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today with no sales reported. It was believed that some duty would be due the middle of next month and some Cubas were available at 5.96c duty paid, but refiners showed no interest, probably awaiting an increased demand for refined before making fresh commitments.

Raw sugar futures were quiet and prices generally easier under liquidation for over the holiday and some selling by houses with European connections. The market opened unchanged to one point lower, but soon eased off and at midday was 1 to 2 points net lower. The easier tone was due to the inactivity in the spot market and to the poor showing of the London market.

No refined prices were reduced 5 points to the basis of 5.15c for fine granulated with a little better inquiry.

PLYMOUTH OIL'S SUCCESS NEAR PHENOMENAL

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

APPLICATION has been made to list the stock of the Plymouth Oil Company on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange. Trading was recently started on the New York curb.

The Plymouth Oil Company secures the major portion of its income from a 75 per cent interest in the Big Lake Oil Company. During the past five years the latter has secured phenomenal results from the development of production in Reagan county, Tex. At present 15,000 barrels of oil a day are being taken from the field. Eight additional wells have been drilled down to the sand, so that they can be brought in at any time. Officials believe that production can be increased to 30,000 barrels a day if market conditions should make it advisable.

PROFITS OVER MILLION.

Plymouth and Big Lake reported consolidated net profit after depreciation, depletion and Federal taxes in the eight months ended August 31 of $1,945,739. After deducting the proportion of net profit applicable to the minority stockholders of Big Lake, this was equivalent to $1.38 a share on the 1,050,000 shares of Plymouth stock.

EARNINGS last year were adversely affected by conditions general to the oil industry, but even in that poor year net was $3,382,093, which was equivalent to $2.27 a share. In 1926, the best year since the organization of the two companies, net profit was $8,925,281, or $6.86 a share.

The enormous return on the investment can be realized when earnings are compared with the capitalization. Plymouth's $5 par stock totals $5,250,000 and the minority interest in Big Lake is $1,000,000. The total of $6,250,000 was exceeded by net profit in the year of 1926 alone.

INCREASED PRODUCTION.

Future earnings will be helped by increased gasoline production. The development of refinery operations will give the company a more rounded out business. Steps are also being taken to secure production in other fields to minimize the disadvantage of having practically all of the revenues derived from a single field.

Drilling has been started on a block of 90,000 acres in Mecosta county, Mich., in which Plymouth Oil has a half interest. Drilling will also be started on a 280-acre tract in Howard county, Tex., since a 3,000-barrel well has been brought in within three-quarters of a mile of the property.

PLYMOUTH, in conjunction with the Transcontinental Oil Company, owns 34,307 acres in 11 counties in West Texas. This is in addition to 640 acres in Louisiana, 560 acres in Mississippi and 640 acres in New Mexico.

Gas properties are owned jointly with the South Hills Oil and Gas Company, which includes 15 producing wells on 1,396 acres in Washington and Allegheny counties in Pennsylvania.

AMPLE PRECAUTIONS

Ample charges are being made to provide against the exhaustion of wells. Against a property account of $17,102,580 for the consolidated companies on August 31, reserves for depreciation and depletion had been set up totalling $11,123,040. These have been built up in the course of less than five years of operation.

During the eight months of this year, for which earnings are available, $674,062 was charged to depreciation and depletion, while in the entire year of 1926, $1,080,036 was written off.

SPANG, CHALFANT & CO. has secured orders for a large volume of line pipe in recent weeks. The Empire Pipe Line Company has ordered 72 miles of 10¾-inch lap-welded gas line pipe weighing a total of 6,000 tons. This is the third large line pipe booking made recently. The Texas Company ordered 5,000 tons of six-inch seamless pipe for a 100-mile line and the Arkansas Natural Gas Corporation 6,500 tons of 12¾-inch lap-welded pipe for a 60-mile line.

Thanksgiving—With Reasons

A Pleasant Day to All Our Readers.

Tomorrow comes Thanksgiving and 120,000,000 Americans, with few sad exceptions, have good reasons for thankfulness. Those not as prosperous, or not happy in their private affairs may be thankful that the majority of the 120,000,000 are prosperous and happy.

We live in the richest country in the world, with prosperity only BEGINNING.

We live in the country of public schools, which means more to the future happiness of the nation than all our mines and factories.

We live in a land of FREEDOM where each has the right to think as he chooses and express his thought, with respect for the opinions of others.

This country is at peace with the world, wants nothing from any other nation but justice and respect.

We have industries, mines, wealth of all kinds, developed beyond the dreams of early Americans and our undeveloped wealth so far exceeds that which is developed that no comparison is possible.

Our country is most magnificent in size, resources and varied climate.

Reaching from one great ocean to the other, stretching from cold, rich, marvelously rich Alaska to the beautiful lands of Southern California and the tropics of Florida, what does this country lack?

The people of this country are riding in 24,000,000 automobiles. Our factories are turning them out at the rate of more than four millions a year.

There is every cause for thanksgiving, none for complaint. LET US BE THANKFUL.

Council Gets Estimates On Which to Base Budget

Council has received from Mayor Kline the estimates of various departments of city administration, together with suggestions to Council as to proposals of things which are desirable. The Mayor did some cutting from the estimates as they came from department heads, sending them to Council with the total lessened from the original $32,229,700, to $25,844,300, a reduction of more than $6,000,000. It is almost certain that Council also will do some cutting.

It is likely there will be no increase in city millage, Mayor Kline has indicated his feeling in that direction and Robert Garland, chairman of the finance committee of Council, which will make up the budget, has stated his opinion there will be no increase. If that policy prevails whatever addition to the budget is made will have to be taken care of through increased valuation, which the Mayor states to be $22,000,000 on land.

One thing in the estimates that will not strike either Council or the public favorably is the deficit of $400,000 to $600,000. It is not evidence of good business to see such a large shortage carried over. Departments should stick to their budgets. Emergency appropriations should be made in advance, to care for real emergencies that may arise, and the fund should be carefully guarded. It would be great some time to read about coming through the year with accounts balanced except as to an emergency fund which showed a surplus. Some of our administrators appear to think they must spend every cent they get and run their departments into debt besides, or be forever disgraced. They should take lessons from their wives who save money out of the family budget.

Some Women Make Fools of Men

More Women Make Men of Fools.

Above there is a saying, half true, and much older than Samson and Delilah.

THE first half is NOT true. Women do NOT make fools of men. The men MAKE FOOLS OF THEMSELVES.

But women do make MEN of FOOLS. They are doing that every day, and will continue to the crack of doom.

They take poor masculine material and build it up. They persuade inefficiency that it really can do things, and, lo and behold! it goes out and DOES them.

They encourage the drooping spirit, they listen with the patience of saints to tiresome self-praising stories.

They pretend, and actually SEEM to believe, when the husband explains that he is the smartest man in the office, or the factory, or the garage, or the hangar.

Sisyphus, pushing up the hill the big stone that always rolled back, was no more patient than any one of millions of women, pushing a dull husband up the hill of success. He rolls back pretty often, but in millions of cases the wife finally pushes him to the top and balances him there. And he never knows how it happened.

When women first discovered men, back in the cave days, the men were cannibals, hideous savages, covered with red hair, their protruding jaws fitted with big teeth, their foreheads half an inch high. They ate each other and each other's babies, especially the babies, easier to catch.

Women gradually have civilized themselves and civilized men at the same time.

The babies' effect on the mothers was passed on to the fathers.

Women spent a million years changing cannibals and savages to the partially civilized men of today—not so VERY civilized, however.

Women have been changing failure into success, while the men have been making fools of themselves.

And if that is "FEMINISM" make the most of it.

ONCE OVERS

HAVE you ever thought about it—the impressions young children have of their parents?

You talk a great deal about one thing or another in your family life.

Are you sure that your children are not going to misunderstand your motives?

There is an underlying reason for most of the things that are done.

A few parents are absolutely thoughtless and irresponsible.

But generally a father or a mother has enough stability to want to produce the right kind of children.

For this reason, if for no other, parents should be careful of what they say and do, that cannot be explained in a child's language.

Ideas and impressions are created that cannot be erased throughout a whole lifetime by some thoughtless word or gesture.

Parents should be on their guard in telling stories of their own youthful escapades.

Too often they are unwittingly responsible for the lawless acts of their boys and girls.

They look back upon their own misdemeanors too leniently.

And when they tell them exaggerate them perhaps for the sake of the story, while Buddy looks on and determines his course from Daddy's.

Tales That Are Told

Tactful Taximan

A TAX DRIVER picked up a fare who appeared to be slightly unsteady on his feet. He asked to be driven "to the end of the rainbow."

The taxi-driver humored the man, and off they went, but suddenly he began to wonder whether his fare had sufficient money to pay. He pulled up and opened the door.

"Here you are, sir!" he cried cheerfully.

"Is this the end of the rainbow?" asked the fare. "I can't see it anywhere."

"Well, we aren't quite there," agreed the taxi-driver. "The end is just a few yards up the road, but the street's up, and you'll have to walk the rest."—London Answers.

Off the Deep End

EVERYTHING had been done to make the meeting a success, and a large hall and a good speaker had been engaged. When the latter arrived he seemed in a ruffled frame of mind. He beckoned the chairman.

"I should like to have a glass of water on my table, if you please," he said.

"To drink?" asked the chairman, man.

"Oh, no," was the sarcastic retort. "When I've been speaking for half an hour I do a high dive."

Not Worth While

SANDY and Andy had but lately arrived from the country. It was their first visit to the big city, and they were both anxious to find the streets which by legend were "paved with gold."

On their journey Sandy spotted a quarter lying in the gutter of the station yard. Eagerly he pounced on it, with a triumphant smile at his companion's dour face.

"Och, Sandy mon," remarked the other scathingly, "ye diana want ta waste your time on that, mon. Wait till ye get in the thick of it."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

SOME people ain't happy unless they can be worrying about themselves. They want all their friends to be asking them how their health is all the time. Well, there was a woman that wanted to make her husband make a fuss about her that way, so she began to tell him one evening that she had a headache.

"I wouldn't be surprised if I was to die real young anyhow," sue says.

"Nonsense," he says. "That's no sense. What makes you think that?"

"Well, all my family dies young, you know. My mother was only 30 when she died, and my father must have been even younger, and all my cousins—"

"Well, I remember that both of your grandfathers and your grandmothers were living when I first met you."

"No, George, that must be a mistake. The fact is, all my grandparents died in infancy."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

LESE-MAJESTE — know what that means?

That means that you must act pretty and talk sweet when you're discussing the Big Guy. And never, never say anything that might offend his sovereign ears.

Sounds as if that sort of pussy-footing should have gone out with crowns and scepters, doesn't it? Didn't we fight that war to make the world safe for democracy? We did. But just try and act democratic now and see where you land!

'Smatter of fact, there's almost as much of this lese-majeste stuff clutting up this country today as there was in Europe at its kaiserest. We're simply swarming with people and institutions who mustn't be criticized nohow by nobody.

Here's an example. Recently the National Educational Association Committee on Professional Ethics decided to build a code of ethics for the teaching profession. A questionnaire was sent out to members of the profession to determine which of 39 types of behavior they considered most unethical.

Among the questions was this one: "Is it ethical to criticise the profession?"

Forty per cent of those who answered said that it was not ethical.

In other words, half of the teachers of our land decided that the school teaching profession had arrived at such a state of perfection that it was a sacrilege to comment upon it adversely.

How come? And also migosh! Who do these citizens think they are, anyway. The Twelve Apostles?

Silly? Of course, it's silly. You and I have the heartiest respect for the N. E. A. and owe a great debt of gratitude to the fine men and women who struggled so hard to set us on our way. But we also know that any going business needs criticism, and lots of it, and that the school teaching profession is no exception. And it particularly needs criticism by the intelligent, sincere members of its own clan.

This lese-majeste complex isn't peculiar to school marms, however. For the last 10 years there has been an epidemic of it. It started with certain censorship which seemed imperative during the war period. But it didn't stop with the war. That censorship idea had gone over great—particularly with a lot of bollweavils whose only hope of power lay in making somebody else shut up about something. So censorship has become about our favorite sport.

We mustn't criticize the churches nor the clergy nor the government nor institutions and laws and established traditions. And, of course, mammas and papas have always claimed to be exempt from criticism.

That's all wrong. America had one big idea when it started—the big idea of liberty. Freedom of thought and speech, within reasonable limits, freedom of action. The best thing we did for our first hundred years was to criticize something or someone. And the worst thing we have ever done in our history is to get the idea that we're a lot of tin gods, who can't be sneezed at.

Shooting Stars

By Garrett P. Serviss

"It was my good fortune to witness a most wonderful sight this morning at 2:45 a. m. A shooting star very bright and large traveling rather slow, came into view high up in the heavens and followed a course toward the northwest. It had a very long, bright tail, and when about 25 degrees from the horizon vanished, but the tail hung suspended for some minutes before it gradually faded away. I wish you would explain what it was and what caused the tail to hang suspended so long.—Denis J. Warren, Greenwich, Conn."

IT was a good fortune, indeed, for you have witnessed one of those sights which nature only occasionally furnishes to the inhabitants of this little earth, and which glow in the memory long after presidential elections and similar temporarily absorbing things have faded into the light of common day. Happy are they and greatly favored by the gods who see these things in the heavens. Some glimpse them with the eye, but do not see them with the mind. For them they are mere accidental sparks whose nature and origin are not worth inquiring about. When the mind really "captures" a meteor, it is as when an atom captures an electric charge, and thereby becomes an ion, endowed with marvelous new powers, a "goer" in the universe of matter.

From your description of the brightness of this meteor I should say that it was one of those sporadic apparitions usually called "fireballs." The ordinary "shooting star" or meteor is relatively faint and seldom leaves any visible trail; at least, none lasting so long as that which you saw. These trails, however, are sometimes seen in the track of a fireball, or meteorite, and there are a few instances on record in which they have remained visible for many minutes, seeming to drift in air currents, and changing form like floating serpents. They are composed primarily, it is believed, of heated gases expelled from the meteoric body as it rushes through the air at a speed of many miles per second. But, owing to the long continuance of the visibility of some of these trails, it is supposed that electric ionization plays a part in the emission of their light.

You speak of the "slowness" of the motion. This is another indication that the object was a meteorite (fireball) rather than a simple meteor. Owing to air resistance the velocity of these bodies, which is very high in outer space, becomes rapidly reduced and velocities as low as about nine miles per second have been measured. Since the velocity may be as great as 45 miles per second outside the atmosphere, the reduction to one-fifth of that speed indicates that the body must have passed through many miles of air. The slowing down has sometimes been noticeable to observers. Fireballs may, at the end of their course, and after their light has seemed to die out like that of a choked candle, lose all of their original motion, and so drop to the earth under the force of gravity alone.

By that time small ones have been reduced to dust, but considerable masses of large meteorites may strike the earth with great force, burying themselves in the soil, or being shattered on rocks. We can never be too thankful that we have atmosphere spread like a domed shield over our heads by day and night, for if there were no air resistance to be overcome, even the tiniest meteoric bodies—though no larger than grains of sand—would plunge down upon the earth at lightning speed, and with a penetrative power proportioned to the square of their velocity. Since many millions of these bodies are believed to strike into the atmosphere every 24 hours, the protective function of the latter becomes startlingly evident.

Bible Passages

The Flood Ends

(Genesis 8; 1-14)

AND God remembered Noah, and every living thing, and all the cattle that was with him in the ark: and God made a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters assuaged;

The fountains also of the deep and the windows of heaven were stopped, and the rain from heaven was restrained;

And the waters returned from off the earth continually: and after the end of the hundred and fifty days the waters were abated.

And the ark rested upon the mountains of Ararat.

And it came to pass at the end of forty days, that Noah opened the window of the ark which he had made:

And he sent forth a raven, which went forth to and fro, until the waters were dried up from off the earth.

Also he sent forth a dove from him, to see if the waters were abated from off the face of the ground;

But the dove found no rest for the sole of her foot, and she returned unto him into the ark, for the waters were on the face of the whole earth: then he put forth his hand, and took her, and pulled her in unto him into the ark.

And he stayed yet other seven days; and again he sent forth the dove out of the ark;

And the dove came in to him in the evening; and, lo, in her mouth was an olive leaf pluckt off: so Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth.

And he stayed yet other seven days; and sent forth the dove; which returned not again unto him any more.

And it came to pass in the six hundredth and first year, in the first month, the first day of the month, the waters were dried up from off the earth: and Noah removed the covering of the ark, and looked, and, behold, the fact of the ground was dry.

And in the second month, on the seven and twentieth day of the month, was the earth dried.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

In Each Man's Soul

DEEP down in each man's soul God sets
The seeds of his content,
To sprout, in spite of fears and frets,
By years unfriendly sent.

The brave roots creep, the stanch roots cling,
It grows, a goodly tree,
For each man, whether serf or king,
Claims his identity.

Of all life's strangenesses most strange
Is this: However low
A wretch's lot, he would not change
For any earth can show.

He would not lose the self, the "I,"
He owns, for fame or throne;
Deep down in each man's soul they lie,
The seed that God has sown.

Isn't It So?

Modern young people are as hard to understand as their parents.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Recently I returned from California with the quaint tale of a 38-room hilltop house built for a childless married couple out yonder. At the few gatherings where I cleared my throat impressively to tell about it the excitement was quite negligible.

It appears that around the corner and up Fifth avenue a few blocks from where I board there is a 41-room duplex apartment occupied by a gentleman who lives alone save for his servants. He has, incidentally, 18 rooms for the help, leaving a paltry 23 for his own use.

The bare apartment cost $375,000, but with furnishings stands the owner—a Mr. Markle from Wilkes-Barre, with coal mines—a million. It has everything including a block-long Roman pool and a private switchboard with some 20 extensions and a day and night operator.

Mr. Markle, it seems, shrinks from publicity. He shoos snooping reporters and photographers away. He wants to live simply and quietly, wandering about among his art treasures. Those who know say the mere upkeep of such a castle-like apartment costs $75,000 a year.

In a building to be erected on Park avenue in the 70's a middle-aged bachelor is to see Mr. Markle and raise him 12 rooms. He will have 53 rooms in all—16 of which are to be designed to meet especial needs of his friends when they are house guests.

A doctor on upper Fifth avenue has acquired a 39-room apartment. And thus the 20-room apartment becomes no longer a novelty among the rich. It all means the passing of those palatial mansions, such as that of the late Senator Clark, in New York. Realty values are too tremendous for even millionaires to support a castle.

So the nearest Manhattan can come to a glorified private dwelling is the penthouse on the roof of high-flung building. These permit a little terraced ground about them, formal gardens for informal parties, a few open verandas, and there is one with an arbored walk at the end of which is a beautiful vista of the city.

A few abandoned breweries in New York have been turned into profitable enterprises. They are used for raising quick-growing mushrooms and provide a market turnover within a few days. Mushrooms bring around a dollar a pound in large cities and several growers are realizing as high as $400 a day.

A popular novelist tells of being annoyed several times a week by a show off who gives the impression of being on easy and familiar terms with him. He addresses the novelist over the phone by nickname from a room in which the hum of conversation indicates is well filled. No matter how much he may splutter his protests, the voice at the other end creates an impression of fast friendship. Just another neat little brand of New York four-flushing.

Along the Rialto they no longer jeer that a fellow producer is slipping if he sponsors a flop. A few years ago when a lavish production "laid an egg" the merry hoot echoed through the canyon that a certain glorified musical revue producer was through—it was Mr. Ziegfeld, if you'll let go of my throat—and it reached his ears on the eve of a long journey. Ziggy is vainer than a dozen peacocks. He was indeed getting ready to retire and travel. Instead, he unpacked his trunks and goaled 'em with the most spectacular burst of profligacy Broadway has ever known. He produced three musical shows at a total well over a million and had a new theater built for him to boot. He hasn't heard a teeny-weeny peep since.

Ziegfeld's announcement of opening the old Midnight Frolic Roof atop the New Amsterdam Theater is pleasing the old-timers who used to crick a shriveled neck to see the barelegged coryphees disport on a glass runway overhead. Ziegfeld's plan provides food and dancing at intermission. Also the little wooden hammers with which after midnight New York of 15 years ago beat upon table tops so insanely, joyously and perhaps a little drunkenly.

WORD SLEUTHS

By Herbert Kaufman

THERE'S more color concentrated in a drop of printer's ink than in a pound of coal tar.

The man who found the dictionary "a very interesting book, but somewhat lacking in plot," had no conception of the pageantry and romance that may be crowded into single words.

Language isn't merely a batch of verbal tags to identify things, places, emotions and qualities, but a series of mileposts as well, marking the road of evolutionary experience.

Full length racial portraits may even be painted with a dozen alphabetical strokes.

Arrogant, drably defined as "exorbitant claims to rank or estimation" by the lexicographer, reveals a complete national phase to the historian.

It derives from the inhabitants of Aragon, in Northern Spain, whose truculent independence not only forbade deference to royalty, but actually compelled early monarchs to admit personal inferiority to their own subjects, each of whom esteemed himself better born than a king.

Of all peoples the Spanish are traditionally the most independent.

Since Hector's puphood they have enjoyed unusual liberty of speech and action. So much of their country is sterile and forbidding that the population would have migrated long ago except for guarantees of privileges not enjoyed in any other realm.

Philology, which sucks such marrow out of time's bones, is forever trailing the tools of speech to their origin.

It traces "blackmail" back to the Scotch border, where a fractional iron coin—maille nois (meaning black mill)—became a headtax paid annually by the Normans for immunity from the raiding bands that regularly swept down from Caledonia.

Captain Boycott and Etienne Silhouette are biographically interred in common vocabulary. Mr. Webster will tell you why.

His omniscient volume holds the distilled chronicles of humankind—all conquests and discovery—all adventure and achievement march in tight procession across its pages. The pass key to man's total stores of knowledge are there.

Word sleuths are never at a loss what to do with spare time.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

THE Baltimore Bar Association has banned women lawyers. The first guess is that the Baltimore Bar Association is composed of very old men with antique ideas.

A Milwaukee woman is ordered by court to pay her divorced husband $750. SHE owes HIM that much alimony.

Well, well, well. Maybe there is some truth in that old adage about justice being triumphant in the end.

Catherine Demedici, called the wickedest woman of her time, invented high heels. Some man who has been stepped upon, recently with very sharp ones, reminds us of it.

A dreary, unhappy reformer has small influence. No one wants to be unhappy whether they are good or not.

Robert Louis Stevenson says that if your morals make you unhappy they are wrong and you shouldn't spoil the lives of better people with them.

I always thought that was one of the reasons the Salvation Army lassies are so successful. They are so happy in their good work, and they make you feel that if being good makes you that way, you are willing to be reformed.

I've seen hundreds of them at work, and I never yet saw one who was mopey or sad.

The man who got the Nobel prize for medicine this year got it for discovering an infectious fever germ that was so minute it filtered through an unglazed porcelain.

"But," said Dumb Dora, "wouldn't you hate to spend your life straining out gnats?"

The happiest woman I ever knew of was not worrying about what life was going to do to her. She was too busy doing things for others to whom life had administered a few choice blows. She is a movie actress.
